GOOD BULLS OF PURE BLOOD WILL IMPROVE HERDS QUICKLY

With purebred bulls a breeder achieves more in the improvement of his herd in two generations than he can in five with grade bulls, says the department of agriculture. Department workers have thoroughly studied the subject of building up herds to better milk, butter and beef production. Better sires may be obtained either by individual purchase or by becoming a member of a bull association. Literature on the latter method can be obtained by writing to the department, and will furnish useful reading during the winter. Full information can also be obtained by consulting your county agent or state agricultural college.

YOUR KIDNEYS OR BACK BOTHER YOU?

READ WHAT THIS MAN SAYS

Dinuba, Cal.—Two years ago the flu left my kidneys in a very bad shape. I went to my physician but he didn't do me any good. I got thin, my back hurt all the time, and I was not able to work. I got very despondent and finally, after almost giving up hope of getting well, I heard of Dr. Pierce's Anuric Tablets and began using them together with Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and after a few months' treatment I found myself practically well. I can recommend these 'Anuric Tablets' for weak kidneys; and for torpid liver, impure blood and poor digestion, there is nothing that equals the Golden Medical Discovery.

MURDER MYSTERY MAY BE SOLVED

SKIDMORE, HELD IN IDAHO FOR THEFT, MAKES DAMAGING ADMISSION

Betrays Fear of Hanging When He Thinks Montana Sheriff Has Come For Him; Was Found in Possession of Missing Woman's Effects; Wholesale Auto Thief.

Belief that a murder veils the mystery of Mrs. Ernest LaCasse's disappearance has been revived by a conversation Sheriff Beals of Anaconda reports having had with C. C. Skidmore in the jail at Pocatello, Idaho, during a visit there to interview the prisoner on some of his actions while in Montana. Several months ago Skidmore was a prisoner at Butte as a result of being found in possession of the missing woman's trunk, and attempts were made by the authorities to develop a murder case at the time.

Skidmore has denied murdering the woman, but in the conversation which the sheriff alleges took place at Pocatello, he is represented as betraying a fear of being hanged if brought back to this state.

Fears Hanging, at Least

When Sheriff Beal entered Skidmore's cell he declared that he said to the man: "I have come to take you back to Montana."

Skidmore, according to Beal, then said: "What for? Murder?"

Beal then said, "Yes."

Skidmore is then said to have asked: "Did you find the body?"

"Sure," Beal replied.

"All in one place?"

"No."

"Well, did you find enough to identify the woman?"

"Sure."

Skidmore, according to Beal, then turned to one of the Idaho officers and said: "For God's sake take me to Utah. Don't let them take me to Montana, or they will hang me sure."

The disappearance of Mrs. LaCasse occurred last February. Search for her body has failed to reveal it, but Skidmore is believed to have been implicated in the alleged murder. He was angry with her because she testified against him and a half to nine years in the penitentiary. He is out on parole, which has been revoked.

Boasts Stealing 125 Automobiles

Skidmore has the reputation of being one of the cleverest criminals in the northwest. He boasted that from the date of his parole from the state penitentiary until February he had stolen and sold 125 machines.

He was a chemist and was able to change not only license plate numbers but those on the motors as well. He had a complete set of keys when arrested at Pocatello and a variety of tools.

His scheme in automobile dealings was to steal a car and then represent himself as the original owner. The buyer, in looking up this machine at the office of the department of state, would get the man's name and license numbers as proof that the deal was all right. He could find nothing irregular about the transaction and would make the purchase.

Used Other Man's registration

In other instances Skidmore would get the name of a machine, its owner and numbers. He would then steal a car, change the numbers to fit, represent himself as this man and sell the car. In this manner it was difficult to check up his actions. He worked with his mother, who was also said to be clever at playing her part.

Skidmore was arrested at Pocatello a few weeks ago and after an attempted escape, during which he was shot in the shoulder and arm, he fainted while trying to change the

Michigan Buying Seed in Montana

New recognition for the high qualities of Montana alfalfa seed is noted in the announcement that the Michigan agricultural college has bought 900 bushels of alfalfa seed from James Garthofner of Leedy. The shipment will amount to a carload, it is said, and will have to be transported a good many miles to the railroad.

Montana alfalfa seed is in great demand. Often the Canadian Pacific buys it for distribution among the settlers along its lines. Large seed houses consider it the best and each year there is keen competition to buy the best crops.

license number on a stolen car and was recaptured.

He was arrested on a charge of bootlegging and on this automobile traffic. He was surprised at his house and made his escape when getting out of the police patrol wagon. Officers shot him.

The first thing he said when he regained consciousness in the hospital was to ask that he would not be sent north, meaning to Montana, for trial. At that time he apparently feared that he would be charged with the murder of the LaCasse woman.

LIBBY FOLKS HEAR FRISCO MUSIC BY WIRELESS PHONE

Libby, Dec. 19.—Several nights every week a 16-year-old Libby boy puts a telephone receiver to his ear and listens to the music played by a 40-piece band in the Fairmont hotel at San Francisco.

With an investment of a little more than $200, Brandon Wentworth, a nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley S. Craig, and a resident at the Craig home, has installed a wireless telegraph and telephone outfit that is the delight of all Brandon's school friends and somewhat of a wonder to the adults who have been permitted to "listen in" with him while the apparatus was in operation.

There are two receivers. Brandon has one fastened to his ear. He gives the other one to his visitor. "Click-click-click" like the noise of a regular telegraph instrument. "That's an amateur at Portland," Brandon remarks.

Picks Up Ships.
The youngster then slips his hand rapidly from one to another of several bewildering looking dials and switches, making a slight change in each. To your ear comes a differently sounding "click-click"—a higher and shriller note.

"That's a ship way off—probably down by the Hawaiian islands," says Brandon.

Code Message Always.

"You can get messages in the code all the time, almost any minute you want to hunt for them, by varying your receiving apparatus until you catch a wave length then in use," he said. "But the only time you can hear voices or music is along about 9 o'clock in the evening, when the station in San Francisco starts sending them out. It is the only telephone transmitter I have caught. It gets busy every night, and the music that is furnished guests in the hotel is carried up to the top of the building and sent out into the air for the benefit of the wireless stations all over the country."

Brandon is a junior in the Libby high school. He came here this year from California, where he lived in Santa Barbara and operated an amateur wireless station of his own construction. He installed the station here without any other expert help.

Elk and Deer Said to be in Fine Shape

Great Falls, Dec. 20.—Elk and other game in the Sun river and Willow creek country are in good condition and feed has been plentiful until the last big snow, according to Deputy Forester W. M. Rush from the district supervisor's office, who returned to Great Falls Sunday after a week in the Lewis and Clark forest.

Rush visited two ranger camps, at Hannan gulch in the Sun river country and at Willow creek station, 18 miles west of Augusta. While he was mulling through the mountains on snowshoes between the stations he saw 22 elk on Beaver creek. The elk were high in the mountain and in fine condition, Rush said. The elk had been driven to the lower country by the storm earlier in the season, but had drifted back on the high ranges following the recent chinook.

There is an abundance of smaller game in that country, although the wolves and coyotes make constant raids on the grouse and pheasants. There has been evidence of chases of deer and elk in parts of the country, the rangers reported, making the herds very wild.

Missing Man Is Believed to Have Been Murdered

Butte, Dec. 20.—Was Ole Larson an aged man who lived near Brown's quarry west of Anaconda murdered?

After the lapse of many months during all of which time the officials of Butte and Anaconda were left with the theory that he died of natural causes or removed suddenly from the city, circumstances have arisen which are now being investigated and which may lead to the proof that Larson was murdered for money which he possessed.

In connection with recent developments is the belief that shortly after Larson's disappearance a forged draft for approximately $1,000 was passed through a Butte bank. The draft, it is said, was purchased by Larson and an endorsement as payee was made on the draft presumably by a woman whose name and address is known to the authorities.

Information Not Divulged.

Police circles have declined to divulge any information in connection with the case, but it is said that they are working on the theory which involves the name of C. C. Skidmore, now serving time in the Utah penitentiary for conviction of the theft of an automobile in Salt Lake following his arrest in Pocatello, Idaho.

Skidmore's name was often mentioned in connection with the disappearance of Mrs. Ernest La Casse, whom police authorities declared to have dropped out of sight under circumstances which admitted of the possibility of murder. A search for Mrs. La Casse

Butte, Dec. 20.—With first degree murder charges filed against three and two others attorney, the five paroled convicts from the Deer Lodge penitentiary, held in connection with the slaying of Cyril "Sut" Schilling at the Harrison hotel Thanksgiving night, have settled themselves down to await their trial at the March term of court.

William "Slim" Harris, alias Lemmox, Clyde Miller, alias McCoy, and Monte Harris, the three against whom charges have already been filed, are confined in the same cell on the first floor of the county jail, with several other prisoners against whom minor charges have been fixed in only one case, that of Monte Harris, in which it was fixed at $30,000, which he has been unable to raise.

Edward A. Graham, alias Neil Mulcaster, and George Beach occupy cells on the second floor of the jail building. Each has cellmates, but the suspects are not allowed to see each other. Since the five men have been locked in the county jail, unusual precautions have been taken against any attempt on their part to make a break for freedom.

Precautions Are Taken.

Records of the men show them to be of the type that would probably resort to desperate means to make their escape. Electric bells throughout the jail are inspected regularly and jailers are required to inspect the bars to their cells at least once an hour.

Since their arrest one of the men is known to have made a signed confession in which four of the men were implicated in the murder at the holdup. The confession gives a detailed account of the actions of the quartet from the time they visited the Holland ice rink early in the evening with a view of holding up the office of the day's receipts until they went to the Harrison hotel where the holdup and murder of Mr. Schilling took place.

Butte, Dec. 20.—With first degree murder charges filed against three and two others attorney, the five paroled convicts from the Deer Lodge penitentiary, held in connection with the slaying of Cyril "Sut" Schilling at the Harrison hotel Thanksgiving night, have settled themselves down to await their trial at the March term of court.

William "Slim" Harris, alias Lemmox, Clyde Miller, alias McCoy, and Monte Harris, the three against whom charges have already been filed, are confined in the same cell on the first floor of the county jail, with several other prisoners against whom minor charges have been fixed in only one case, that of Monte Harris, in which it was fixed at $30,000, which he has been unable to raise.

Edward A. Graham, alias Neil Mulcaster, and George Beach occupy cells on the second floor of the jail building. Each has cellmates, but the suspects are not allowed to see each other. Since the five men have been locked in the county jail, unusual precautions have been taken against any attempt on their part to make a break for freedom.

Precautions Are Taken.

Records of the men show them to be of the type that would probably resort to desperate means to make their escape. Electric bells throughout the jail are inspected regularly and jailers are required to inspect the bars to their cells at least once an hour.

Since their arrest one of the men is known to have made a signed confession in which four of the men were implicated in the murder at the holdup. The confession gives a detailed account of the actions of the quartet from the time they visited the Holland ice rink early in the evening with a view of holding up the office of the day's receipts until they went to the Harrison hotel where the holdup and murder of Mr. Schilling took place.
