HEIDEMANN ARRESTED, CONFESSES TO THE MURDER OF MARIE SMITH

RAID ON WIFE HERE RESULTS IN DIVORCE

Emil Schell of Newark, Who Descended Upon Asbury Park Summer Home With Friends, Is Granted Decree by Vice Chancellor Stevens.

NEWARK, March 15.—When Emil Schell of this city caught his wife entertaining another man in the Schell cottage at Asbury Park last summer, he held himself in check and decided that the written law would be good enough for him. He triumphed yesterday when Vice Chancellor Stevens granted him a decree of divorce after he had heard the testimony of three witnesses, including the petitioner. The correspondent, the man with whom Mrs. Schell was caught, was William C. Case, an insurance broker who until recently lived at 69 Broad street, this city, and who was frequently in Asbury Park.

The father gets the custody of their only child, a boy who is 12 years old. The lad has been with Schell since two weeks before the father swooped down upon his own summer home to garner evidence of his wife's duplicity. The boy now understands the situation and is happy with his grandparents, Schell's mother and father. At first he cried for his mother and became ill and for his sake friends and members of the two families tried to effect a reconciliation. But the husband remained firm and without losing any time he began his action for divorce. At the time of the denouement in Asbury Park Mrs. Schell said she was "ashamed to come back to Newark" and it is not known that she has since been home.

Schell is interested in Newark breweries and is said to be prosperous. He and his wife, who, previous to their marriage Oct. 23, 1895, was Miss Elizabeth Fergg, lived happily here. Early last summer he decided that Mrs. Schell and the little Schell child should spend the season at the seashore. They went down to Asbury Park early in the summer and rented a cottage. Schell's business interests kept him in the city most of the time but he spent Saturday and Sunday of each week with his wife and boy at the shore. He enjoyed it; Mrs. Schell was vivacious; the boy was tanned and happy. Then came stories that the trusting husband brushed aside and refused to believe until the name of Case was mentioned. Mr. Schell decided to investigate.

On the night of Sept. 14, accompanied by two friends, Schell paid an unexpected visit (unexpected by his wife) to his summer home. There they found enough to base a divorce action on and upon what they found a decree has now been granted. There was a wild scene and threats to kill. Mrs. Schell screamed and there was such a great hullabaloo that neighbors were awakened and kept awake for some time. Schell was restrained by the friends who accompanied him and finally persuaded to give the written law first chance. Suit for divorce was begun next day.

The Schell boy did not see his mother trapped. He had been taken to the home of his grandparents by his father about two weeks before. The boy is a good looking youngster and as "Prince of Pilsen" won a loving cup in the 1909 Baby parade.

LOCAL WILLS ARE FILED IN PROBATE

FREEHOLD, March 15.—The will of Robert E. Williams of Asbury Park, just probated, was executed by Mr. Williams Feb. 14, 1911. He bequeathed all his property, both real and personal, to his wife, Lena Williams, and also appointed her executrix of the estate, and guardian of their 10-year-old daughter, Florence Ella Williams. Sarah E. Chambers and W. W. Pine were witnesses to the will.

Charles H. Chamberlain of Ocean Grove made his will Jan. 5, 1905, appointing his wife, Elizabeth P. Chamberlain, and son, Jesse H. Chamberlain, executors of his estate. He bequeathed all his property to his wife for life, and directed that the property be equally divided between his six children at her death. The children named are: Jessie H., William F., George H. G., Hendrick D., Leon, and Charles A. Chamberlain. The will was witnessed by William H. Lane and Joseph Wister.

The will of Ezekiel Shibla of West Belmar was executed Aug. 16, 1910. He bequeathed all his estate to his wife, Rachel Shibla, and appointed her executrix of the estate. Sadie and Roland Fenimore were witnesses.

Rebecca McClure Pearce, widow of Edgar Pearce of Manasquan, made her will Feb. 14, 1901, bequeathing all her estate to her sister, Charlotte H. Brown, in trust for testator's children and appointing her guardian of them. Miss Bown is empowered to use the income from the estate for the support and education of Mrs. Pearce's children, the residue of the estate to be divided between the two children as each arrives at the age of 21 years. She bequeathed $2,500 to her daughter, Charlotte Crosby Pearce, "in order to equalize what her sister, Katharine Standish Pearce, is entitled to receive from me as her guardian, appointed by the court of chancery." Mrs. Pearce provided in her will that in the event of the death of her children without issue, and before her death, all her personal effects (not including moneys or securities of any kind) shall be distributed between her brothers and sisters: Paul F., Hubert W., Charlotte H., Mary L., Frederick W., Hugh A., and Eleanor L. Brown. One-half of the remainder of the estate, under these conditions, is bequeathed to the father, mother and brothers of her deceased husband, Edgar Pearce, who are living at the time of her death. The remaining one-half of the estate is bequeathed to the board of home missions of the Presbyterian church, and to the board of foreign missions of the Presbyterian church, to be equally divided between them. The will was witnessed by Charles J. Parker and S. Jane Curtis.

NEPTUNE BASEBALL SQUAD AT PRACTISE

Yesterday afternoon at the head of Fletcher lake, the Neptune High baseball squad started the first practise of the season. The boys were kept busy doing things and practised fully one hour and a half. Neptune expects a pennant winning team this year. There are seven of the nine regular players in school. There are quite a number of players out for the team this year. Those who were out yesterday were: English, Valdes, Howard, Hurford. Lyon and Hurst of last year's team. Others who were out were: A. Howard, Reichy, Wyckoff, Huff, Lance, Perry and Bresnahan. The High school team will practise daily from now on.

HACKMEN JAILED.

THROWN THRU SHIELD WHEN CAR HITS POLE

Glass Meets Glass and Both Are Badly Broken Up About It.

W. C. Glass of the Tusting Piano company was hurled thru the windshield of Mr. Tusting's Smith touring car and was badly cut about the scalp and face when the car skidded into a telephone pole in turning from Main avenue, Ocean Grove, into South Main street late yesterday afternoon. The chauffeur who was driving turned sharply to the right to avoid a trolley and the car skidded into the pole before he could get his foot on the emergency brake.

The car was but little damaged beyond the windshield, one lamp being broken. Mr. Glass climbed back into the car and was driven to Dr. John Taylor who sewed up his cuts. Today he is able to be around but wears an excellent disguise.

MEN TO SERVE SUPPER

Preparations are being made to serve a large number at the turkey supper to be given tomorrow evening by the men of the First Congregational church, in the church diningroom. The supper will begin at 6 o'clock and continue until all are served. The men of this church have a reputation for giving excellent suppers. George W. Ruding is head of the men's supper committee.

The $1,000 Overland automobile, the $750 Piano Player and the $350 motor boat, which is on exhibition at Steinbachs, which is to be sold for benefit of Elks home, will be delivered to the purchaser at the Hippodrome Main St. on Friday, St. Patrick's day matinee. 61-4

TELEPHONE 'CUT OVER' TO BE MADE TONIGHT

Common Battery System In Operation In Morning. Improvements, Costing $180,000, Will Give City and Vicinity Best Service Possible.

At 8 o'clock tonight a most interesting operation will be performed on a system nearly as intricate as the human makeup when the local service of the New York Telephone company will be "cut over" to the new common battery exchange in the new and handsome telephone home at the junction of Cookman and Bangs avenues. Asbury Park and the surrounding municipalities included in the local central district, when this work is done, will then have the most modern and up-to-date telephone equipment thus far developed.

To night's work of transferring the telephone exchange from the old central office in Cookman avenue to the new and modern exchange in Bangs avenue culminates more than a year's effort of preparation. It signalizes a new telephone era in Asbury Park and completes a task that has required an outlay of approximately $180,000.

Asbury Parkers for some months past have pointed with pride to the Telephone company's new building. This building has made possible another development to the town that, the Telephone company feels is bound to awaken further gratification. This is the fact that after tonight Asbury Park will have "real city telephone service, you lift the receiver and central, or rather that $60,000 switch board, does the rest."

Change Quickly Made.

The cut over tonight means simply the disconnection of every telephone now communicating with the exchange at 705 Cookman avenue and its transfer to the exchange at 505-511 Bangs

GIRLS PLAY TIE BASKETBALL GAME

Spirited Contest Between Neptune and Asbury Results In Score 9-9.

The girls' basketball teams of Asbury and Neptune high schools met yesterday afternoon in their first match game in their gymnasim over White's drug store, Ocean Grove. The game was a spirited one and the players showed up well as the result of several weeks of practise. The result was a tie, the score being 9 to 9.

The girls all played remarkably well considering their short experience and made but few fouls. The score was close thruout, the first half ending 7 to 5 in favor of the Neptune team. In the second half both teams put in a substitute. The halves were of 15 minutes duration. Mrs. W. E. Staff, the girls' physical director, referred the game and Miss Parkhill, teacher of mathematics in the city high school, acted as timekeeper.

The girls will play their second game next Tuesday afternoon at 3.30 o'clock at the gymnasium.

The lineups yesterday were as follows:

Asbury Park	Positions	Neptune
Helen Elker Ct.	r.f.	Beatrice Clayton
Alice Masta	l.f.	Lillian Holmes (Ethel Burton)
Elizabeth Ludlum	c.	Mabel Jenkinson
India Huston	l.g.	Marguerite Jackson
Isabel Comegys	r.g.	Lucile Walker, Ct.

CLAIMS HE BEAT HER

William Getley of Borden avenue, West Grove, was arrested yesterday afternoon by Constable Amos Williamson and locked up at Neptune township headquarters to await a hearing before Justice Dodd on a charge of assault and battery preferred by Estella Manley. The woman charges that on Monday Getley attacked her and beat her with his fists. Getley, with whom she is said to have been living, claims that she is his wife. He will be given a hearing tonight.

POLICE PENSION MEASURE PASSED

TRENTON, March 15.—In the house yesterday the police pension act measure by Mr. Brodhead was passed. This allows policemen to retire after 20 years of 60, on half pay; after 25 years of service, same retirement at the age of 55. A pension is provided for widows and children. The senate bill by Mr. Edge to permit the erection of danger signboards along the public highways was passed. The commissioner of public roads is to do this work.

COAST WATERWAY PLAN BORN 1872

Asbury Park at That Early Date Advanced Project For Shore Canal.

The inland waterway project isn't nearly as new as many people think. Thirty-nine years ago a proposition to open an inland waterway between New York and Barnegat bay aroused such few peoples as there were then along this section of the shore and even got so far as an application to the legislature for an appropriation. It was found to be too expensive a proposition however and was abandoned.

One night in 1872 a number of citizens of Asbury Park, then a little, little town, met in the school room in the rear of Park hall, which then stood at the corner of Cookman avenue and Main street. They met to talk over matters of interest to the growing resort and to the shore generally. Among other things they talked of an inland waterway back of Asbury Park. Several speeches were made. Among those who advocated the project was Henry C. Winsor, president of the A. P. and O. G. bank now, then the school teacher at Whitesville. He was almost overcome with his enthusiasm for the project.

Clark Newman, at one time a local preacher and at that time a justice court lawyer of the old school, replied to Mr. Winsor. He was opposed to the proposition, ridiculed it and finished by saying there was a lot of wind in Mr. Winsor's speech.

That brought Mr. Bradley up with a reply to Mr. Newman. "Do you call that wind, sir?" he asked, playing on the name of the school teacher. Someone who attended that meeting advertised in the Long Branch News, giving notice that an application would be made to the legislature for an appropriation for the waterway.

WANTS AUTOISTS TO BE CAREFUL WITH MATCHES

TRENTON, March 15.—An appeal to motorists in New Jersey to aid in the work of preventing forest fires has been made by State Motor Vehicle Commissioner J. B. R. Smith. In it Mr. Smith says:

"Alfred Gaskill, the New Jersey State forester, has called attention of the motor vehicle department to a considerable number of forest fires which have been traced to automobilists who have either thrown burning matches into the brush along the roadside or have left unextinguished camp fires which they have started. Of course it can hardly be conceived that any automobilist would wilfully be engaged in such practise, and whatever serious results have accrued from it have been caused by thoughtlessness.

"I would accordingly suggest that motorists when traveling thru a wooded country would give this matter earnest thought, especially with reference to throwing aside burning matches before they have been extinguished."

Lack of a quorum prevented a scheduled meeting of the Lincoln club last night.

FAMOUS ACTRESS DIES IN HOSPITAL

Jennie Joyce, Former Wife of Phil Daly, Jr., Victim Pneumonia.

NEW YORK, March 15.—Jennie Joyce, former wife of Phil Daly, jr., of Long Branch, and once an object of unusual admiration from patrons of concert halls in America and thruout Europe, died yesterday at the Flower hospital without a vestige of her former glory. She was taken to the hospital on Feb. 28 from a rooming house on West Forty-eighth street, where she had been living for some time under the name of Woods.

The numerous hardships she had undergone for the last few years and the irregularity of her life led to a general nervous breakdown and rendered her an easy victim to pneumonia, which caused her death.

At the bedside when the end came were her mother, who arrived at the last minute from Baltimore, and her brother, who came from San Francisco a week ago to take care of her. More attention was showered on her during the last few hours of her life than she had known for many months.

For some time she had been unable to secure theatrical engagements. Last fall she attempted to regain some of her former prestige and accepted vaudeville engagements in the far west which she could not fill. She will be buried tomorrow.

Any mention of Jennie Joyce must recall the halcyon days of Koster and Bial's music hall, where she was the reigning star for years. It was during the period when the old cork room flourished and the real stage Johnnie was seen at every turn. Miss Joyce's star finally set during the last days of Koster and Bial's in 18999, when it came under the management of Najib Hashim. Hashim had coaxed her back for one grand jubilee week, but the old guard failed to rally around her, as Najib had hoped, and her last performances there proved rather pathetic.

She was credited for many years with being the most comely figure in tights then appearing on the stage. This reputation was earned after numerous personages had seen her perform and after proposals from all conditions of men had made her life a series of refusals.

It was during the height of her career, when she was still the most prominent performer at Koster and Bial's that she married Phil Daly, jr., of Long Branch, the expert marksman. For some time they got along together famously, but after a while their domestic life began to have unhappy angles and the couple were divorced.

She then married George Woods. Things did not go well with Woods after the marriage, and after several unfortunate breaks of luck he committed suicide.

After their marriage Phil Daly, jr., and the actress spent several years at Long Branch. Phil Daly, jr., is now living in Miami, Fla.

NEW BROKERAGE FIRM IN ASBURY

H. W. Baker and Co., members of the Consolidated Stock Exchange of New York, with offices at 74 Broadway, have purchased the Rockafeller and Wilkin brokerage agency in Asbury Park and will open an office tomorrow morning in the Steinbach building, Cookman avenue and Main street, in the rooms formerly occupied by Messrs. Rockafeller and Wilkin. The firm retiring did a large commission bbusiness during the busy season and was established several years ago. Baker and Co. will be represented at the Asbury Park office by L. F. Jamison, long with the incoming firm in their New York office. The new firm will conduct a general brokerage business and will receive daily quotations over a special wire and the facilities for market information so amply provided by Messrs. Rockafeller and Wilkin will be still further improved upon by the incoming firm.

Details of Confession Are Kept Secret But It Is Said Slaying Was Done Deliberately and That Murderer Is Moral Pervert---Kruschka Declared Entirely Eliminated.

SHADOWED SINCE HE LEFT ASBURY PARK

Taken From Train at Red Bank and Rushed to Freehold In Waiting Automobile--Trailers Have Watched Every Move Made by Suspect Since Brutal Killing of Little Schoolgirl.

FRANK E. HEIDEMANN WAS ARRESTED THIS AFTERNOON CHARGED WITH THE MURDER OF MARIE SMITH, THE 10-YEAR-OLD SCHOOLGIRL WHO WAS KILLED ON NOV. 9 LAST.

HEIDEMANN HAS CONFESSED, IT IS DECLARED, THAT HE IS THE MURDERER. DETAILS OF THE CONFESSION, HOWEVER, HAVE NOT BEEN MADE PUBLIC. IT IS ASSERTED THAT IT IS KNOWN THE MURDER WAS DELIBERATE.

THE ARREST OF HEIDEMANN WAS MADE BY COUNTY DETECTIVE ELLWOOD MINUGH ON AN ATLANTIC CITY EXPRESS BETWEEN EATONTOWN AND RED BANK. HEIDEMANN WAS TAKEN FROM THE TRAIN WHEN IT REACHED RED BANK AT 4.16. HEAVILY GUARDED, HE WAS PLACED IN AN AUTOMOBILE AND HURRIED TO FREEHOLD.

THE WARRANT CHARGING HEIDEMANN WITH THE MURDER WAS ISSUED BY JUSTICE SICKLES OF RED BANK ON APPLICATION OF COUNTY PROSECUTOR JOHN S. APPLEGATE, JR.

HEIDEMANN SUBMITTED TO ARREST ONLY AFTER A STRUGGLE, IN WHICH HE WAS AIDED BY A COMPANION WHO CAME WITH HIM FROM ATLANTIC CITY.

ARMED WITH THE WARRANT, DETECTIVE MINUGH BOARDED THE ATLANTIC CITY EXPRESS AT FARMINGDALE AT 3.52. HE QUICKLY LOCATED HEIDEMANN DESPITE THE FACT THAT THE YOUNG GERMAN HAD SHAVED OFF HIS MUSTACHE.

DETECTIVE MINUGH MADE NO MOVE UNTIL THE TRAIN NEARED RED BANK, WHEN HE STEPPED ALONGSIDE OF HEIDEMANN AND INFORMED HIM HE WAS UNDER ARREST. HEIDEMANN DENIED HIS IDENTITY AND ENDEAVORED TO ELUDE THE DETECTIVE. IN THE BRIEF STRUGGLE THAT ENSUED HEIDEMANN'S COMPANION JOINED. HE ALSO WAS ARRESTED.

IN HIS ALLEGED CONFESSION HEIDEMANN IMPLICATES NO ONE BUT HIMSELF. MAX KRUSCHKA, HIS EMPLOYER AT THE TIME OF THE MURDER, HEIDEMANN DECLARED, HAD ABSOLUTELY NOTHING TO DO WITH THE CRIME.

Heidemann's every move since his disappearance from Asbury Park in the early part of January has been known to Manager Ray C. Schindler of the Burns Detective agency, who has had men continually on his trail.

Great Work of Burns Detectives.

The arrest of Heidemann is the culmination of four months of assiduous detective work on the part of Mr. Schindler, his brother, Walter Schindler, Charles Scholl and a corps of experienced operatives, and the achievement, regarded as one of the most notable in the career of the detectives, has few parallels in criminal history. In such a quiet manner was the arrest made that the news is the first indication that the work of finding the murderer of the little schoolgirl has never ceased.

Every Move Watched.

The story of the gathering of evidence against Heidemann, the espionage under which he has been placed since he was first suspected, the constant vigilance of his pursuers, and a narration of the proven results of the investigation made as to his past life, haunts and associations, together with the collation and coordination of all the facts adduced, is a story equalling in intensity and throbbing interest the narratives of the deep-plotting master novelists. Artful cunning had to be matched and overcome by subtlety, craft and strategem, wile by finesse, duplicity by diplomacy, and all with the result that Heidemann, who is regarded by all who have worked on the case to be one of the shewdest of criminals, is at last confounded and trapped.

HEIDEMANN ARRESTED; MAKES CONFESSION

Heidemann, since he left Asbury Park, had spent much of his time in New York. He had made all preparations to flee to the west.

A few days ago, with the companion who was with him when he was arrested, he went to Atlantic City. Today they decided to return to New York.

Haggard and worn and presenting little appearance of his former self, Heidemann boarded the train at Atlantic City this afternoon at 2.10 o'clock. He appeared to be aged by the ordeal thru which he has passed since the murder, but on the train talked cheerfully with his companion.

Believing that he had succeeded in eluding the detectives, he was thunderstruck when Detective Minugh grasped him by the shoulder and informed him he was under arrest.

A look of terror spread over his face and he collapsed in his seat. Only for a second, however, did his nerve desert him, then, backed up by his companion, he resisted the officer.

Heidemann was quickly subdued. He was handcuffed and when the train reached Red Bank the detective stepped off with his prisoner. He was met at the station by Sheriff C. E. F. Hetrick and others and while those about the station looked on in curiosity was whisked into an automobile and driven to Freehold, where he was placed in a cell in the county jail.

Story of Girl's Murder, and Continuous Search For Slayer

Marie Smith disappeared on the morning of Wednesday, Nov. 9, while on her way home from the Bradley school, at Third avenue and Pine street. The Sunday following her mutilated body was found in a deserted section of woods along Deal lake, 125 feet from the drift road leading from Third avenue to Ridge avenue. The skull was crushed and the face disfigured by cuts and bruises. One little hand, clinched in a death grip, was blackened with dirt. There were no signs of a struggle and the child's face was not distorted. The body was discovered by William S. Benson, a Bradley Park florist and a former partner of Max Kruschka, Heidemann's employer.

From Marie's home at Whitesville to the Bradley school is almost a mile. With her younger brother trudging along at her side, Marie left home shortly before 8 o'clock on the fatal Wednesday morning. Arrived at the school she left her brother at the kindergarten and went to her own class, Miss Wilde's. At 10.30 o'clock Marie's class was dismissed and putting on her small brown coat and skating cap, she left for home, hurrying her footsteps so that her father's lunch, which she always carried to him at Flavell's rendering plant out Asbury avenue, would not be late.

As she journeyed homeward up Third avenue Albert Foster, a little schoolboy, went along in her wake. Marie turned into the Whitesville road and a moment later Albert reached the crossroads and ran into his home, just off of Third avenue. Dropping his books on the porch, he dashed down the hill to the embankment along Asbury avenue and looking down the road saw Marie stop across the street from the Kruschka place, hesitate a moment, then recross the road to the Kruschka sidewalk. A patch of woods prevented his seeing her further.

Last Seen Alive.

Mrs. Emma Davison, on her way from her home in Wanamassa to visit her sister on Anelve avenue, near Asbury avenue, saw Marie at the intersection of Third avenue and Whitesville road. Her attention was attracted to the child by her singing. Mrs. Davison turned and went down the Whitesville road, Marie, singing in the very ecstacy of living, following a few steps behind.

Reaching Asbury avenue Mrs. Davison turned west. Opposite the roadway leading from Kruschka's Mrs. Davison turned to strike with her handbag at a little fox terrier which ran out from Kruschka's and was barking at her furiously. As she did so she noticed Marie, who had crossed over Asbury avenue to within sight of her home, turn and recross the road. She heard someone call and looking toward the front of the Kruschka home saw a man whom she learned later was Heidemann, standing just behind the hedge. Whether he had called to the dog or to Marie she did not know. As she turned to resume her way down Asbury avenue Marie was about to go up on the sidewalk, not four feet from Heidemann.

From that moment Marie Smith disappeared as completely as tho the earth had opened and swallowed her. Heidemann, while admitting he had seen Mrs. Davison, denied that he had seen the child. It was this emphatic denial that first led to suspicion being directed against him.

The reported disappearance of the little girl created widespread excitement all along the Jersey shore. Much space was devoted to the mystery in the metropolitan newspapers. The entire section hereabouts was aroused to a high pitch.

Press Sounded Alarm.

The first inkling of the child's disappearance was given thru The Press. Before the police had taken up the search a Press reporter began an investigation. Relatives of the child's parents in Brooklyn were called up on the phone and a request made that a search be made among other relatives there, the mother having expressed a belief that perhaps Marie had run away and gone to Brooklyn, where she formerly lived. While the grief stricken mother waited on the schoolhouse corner hoping against hope that her loved one would return to school the next morning, the Press reporter was prosecuting a search of the trash dumping grounds beyond the Kruschka place. There he first saw Thomas Williams, generally known as "Black Diamond," arrested as a suspect after the finding of the child's dead body. "Diamond" aided him in the search. Sections of woods were gone over, persons at the Kruschka residence were questioned, Heidemann, expressing little or no concern when approached, was examined. Mrs. Delia Jackson, an aunt with whom Marie formerly lived, and the child's father, Peter Smith, were interviewed. All this before the police search was begun.

Burns Called In.

Randolph H. Miller, the employer of Peter Smith, early began an investigation of the child's disappearance. In his gray automobile, which soon became a familiar sight along the roads in the section where the search was carried on, he took police officers, detectives and Press reporters to run down every new clue discovered. After the finding of the body Mr. Miller was largely instrumental in calling in the Burns Detective agency, which had been recommended to Sheriff Clarence E. F. Hetrick as the best in the country. Mr. Miller gave his time and energy from the beginning and it is due in great measure to his persistent demands that the perpetrator of the crime be run to earth that the search for the murderer was maintained. Sheriff Hetrick also looms up as a prominent figure in the ceaseless probe to find the murderer, his untiring leadership inspiring hope and courage to all those engaged in the work. Edward J. Handley, a local newspaper man, thru knowledge gained on other notable detective cases, especially the Guldensuppe trunk murder case in New York, in the solving of which he played an important part, assisted in planning the trap into which Heidemann at last fell, and gave other aid that was invaluable. County Prosecutor John S. Applegate, jr., of Red Bank also played a conspicuous part in the plans that led to the capture and to him is due much credit.

While Sheriff Hetrick and Mr. Handley did not join in the search for the murderer until after the finding of the child's body, Mr. Miller was the leading spirit in the search from the time he learned Marie was missing. Day after day he abandoned his work to scour the woods in the Whitesville section and as far west as the sand hills. Barns and dwellings were searched, men in rowboats, canoes and launches probed the lake bottom with grappling irons. The water was drained from the lake. All efforts to find the missing girl were unavailing. The police were baffled and at a standstill.

Boys Make Search.

Miss Helen R. Emery, principal of the Bradley school, lent every possible aid. The morning after Marie's disappearance was reported she sent all the boys of the higher grades in the school to join in the search. Under the direction of Officer Walter Ireton, the first policeman detailed on the case, the boys went thru every stretch of woods within a mile either way of the Kruschka nursery. The patch of woods in which the body was found later was searched thoroly. Several boys declared positively afterwards that they had been over the very space where the body was discovered. This strengthened the belief of many that the child was not the vicitim of a criminal assault at the place where her body was found, but that she had been murdered elsewhere and her body carried there later.

Sunday morning several posses of men and boys were engaged in the search. Automobiles were scouring the backwoods and detectives in boats were dragging the lake about Griffin's dam. Mr. Miller and the Press reporter spent much time during the morning endeavoring to trace Williams, who had disappeared the day after Marie was missed. He could not be located. Suspicion at that time had not been drawn to Heidemann, and discoveries made pointed strongly to Williams as the murderer.

Finding of Body.

Sunday afternoon, between 12 and 1 o'clock, the body of Marie Smith was found. W. S. Benson had read in The Shore Press that a reward of $200 was to be offered by the city and Neptune township for the finding of the body. He delivered a floral piece on Asbury avenue, then struck across to Third avenue and entered the drift road leading to Ridge avenue. Cutting thru the woods toward the lake at a point equi-distant between Ridge and Third avenues he came across a huddled brown heap lying directly across a worn path. Closer examinations disclosed the dead body of the missing schoolgirl. The head was pointed toward the southeast. The legs were drawn up; one arm was doubled beneath the body. About the throat, tightly drawn, were the child's hair-ribbon and skating cap. A gaping wound in the skull, toward the back, evidenced the manner in which the child had been killed. On the ground beneath the wound was a pool of blood-like fluid.

The alarm was given and a morbidly furious crowd soon gathered about the still little form on the frozen ground, quickly obliterating whatever footprint or other evidence there may have been in the vicinity.

Examination Unsatisfactory.

With the arrival of the coroner the body was removed to the morgue of Undertaker Fred E. Farry, where an examination was made by Drs. Earl Wagner and Joseph Ackerman. So incomplete and unsatisfactory was this examination, however, that the detectives several weeks later found it necessary for a better understanding of the nature of the wounds, to exhume the body at the Holy Cross cemetery, in Brooklyn, and hold another autopsy. This second autopsy convinced the detectives that Williams was not the guilty man and strengthened their belief that the crime had been committed by a sexual pervert, such as they then knew Heidemann to be.

Eight hours after the finding of Marie's body Williams was captured in a room in the rear of 19 Atkins avenue, where he had been living with William Wynn. In a statement to the police shortly after his arrest Williams excused his efforts at concealment by saying he had suffered from a lame back, which compelled him to remain in bed. Wynn told the officers Williams had washed some clothing while at his place and spots discovered on some castoff clothing belonging to Williams were thought to be blood. Williams confessed that he had served a two-year term in the state prison at Trenton for larceny and had been jailed on another charge. He had worked at the home of Mrs. Delia Jackson and knew Marie Smith well. He denied that he had ever harmed the child in any way and said he knew absolutely nothing of the murder except what he had heard.

Threats of Lynching.

Threats of lynching were general all during the next day. That night a mob of several hundred excited men swarmed about the jail clamoring for the negro's life. Several times a cordon of police with drawn nightsticks charged the crowds, but it was not until near midnight that the officers succeeded in clearing the streets. Chief of Police William H. Smith, in a speech to the mob, had promised that Williams would be kept in the city jail until morning.

With the low mumblings of the mob ringing in his ears Williams, during the early evening, had been put thru a gruelling "third degree" examination by Coroner Robert M. Purdy and County Detective Elwood Minugh. At the close of the examination the nude body of the dead girl was laid out before him. Williams was greatly agitated, but his nerve did not desert him. Placing his hand on the dead girl's body he swore that he was innocent of the murder.

Shortly after midnight the negro was bundled into an automobile and under heavy guard was taken to Freehold where he was placed in a cell in the county jail. An effort to have him released later resulted in a charge being preferred against him of illegal voting. Tho no indictment was found against him in connection with the murder, he was convicted on the illegal voting charge and sentenced to two years in state prison.

For a time the belief was general that Williams was the guilty man. The crime was committed the day following election. The negro admitted he had been drunk all day election. Witnesses at the coroner's inquest testified that he had been drinking at Griffin's Wanamassa hotel the morning of Marie Smith's disappearance. It was proven that he left the hotel and went along the Ridge avenue road within a short distance of Third avenue about the time that the child was last seen. John Conover and William Taylor saw him pass along this road. To the best of their rather hazy recollection it was about 11 o'clock. Williams said that after he had left the hotel he went down Ridge avenue, turned into the brick yard road to the west and went to the home of Molly Williams, a daughter of one of Mrs. Delia Jackson's negro husbands, and remained there until dusk. He spent the night in Wynn's room, was at the Jackson home cutting wood all the next day and returned to Wynn's that night, remaining there until his arrest.

Record Against Him.

Evidence against the negro appeared to be strong. His record was against him. His evasive attitude when under cross-examination set popular feeling against him. With his capture it was believed the murder of the little schoolgirl would be speedily avenged. Detectives Johnson and Cunningham of the Greater New York Detective agency dug up a mass of circumstantial evidence against the negro. Those who had confidently believed in the negro's guilt and had expected a verdict by the coroner's jury holding him as the murderer were disappointed when the findings of the jury were announced. The verdict was that Marie Smith had come to her death at the hands of a person or persons unknown. Williams was not released. He is still in jail serving his sentence for voting last election day at both the Sprinwood avenue polling place and at Oakhurst, under an assumed name.

With Williams safe in jail the excitement subsided. Mothers of children continued to accompany them to and from school, however, and the feeling of unrest and fear did not abate for several weeks.

With the calling in of the Burns Detective agency began the espoinage of Heidemann. After a thoro investigation of the facts already gleaned by The Press the detectives reached the conclusion that the child had not been murdered where her dead body was found, but that she had been killed somewhere else and her body carried there. The crime to them gave distinct evidence of the work of a sexual pervert. Heidemann's room at the Kruschka home was searched and tubes of morphine pills were found. It was just the evidence they sought and with the finding of the drug were morally certain they were on the right track. From that time on Heidemann was under surveillance. Detectives watched the house day and night. His every action was under observation.

Heidemann Arrested.

For a week the detectives maintained their vigil, sometimes in surrounding houses, at other times concealed in the woods. All was proceeding well when unlooked for conditions developed. Kruschka confided to a Press reporter that he intended discharging Heidemann, "because of the undesirable notoriety and annoyance his presence about his place caused," and Heidemann had told him he would return to New York. His immediate arrest was decided on in the hope that he would break down under a cross-examination and confess the part he had played in the murder.

Heidemann was arrested, taken to the office of Sheriff Hetrick and put thru a gruelling 10 hour examination by the detectives. He gave evasive answers, lied repeatedly and at times became highly wrought up. The examination was practically barren of result. Heidemann was taken from the sheriff's office to a cell in the city jail where he was held under $2,000 bonds as a material witness for the coroner's inquest. Kruschka became his surety and two hours before midnight he was released.

Heidemann a Pervert.

According to nature a mind that is lacking in development along some lines is abnormally developed otherwise. Heidemann long since had been regarded as a pervert. He had displayed remarkable cunning during his talks with the detectives, who soon perceived that he was possessed of an abnormally shrewd mind. To match this the detectives knew they must resort to the keenest stratagem. A consultation was held at the New York headquarters of the agency, and plans for the trap were laid. Manager Schindler sent for his chief, William J. Burns, whose work in unearthing counterfeiters, murderers and exposing governmental land frauds and putting an end to graft in San Francisco and Seattle had won him a world-wide reputation.

Mr. Burns came to Asbury Park, went over the scene of the crime and talked briefly with Heidemann. His first words to his men after this talk were "Heidemann is the murderer, there is not the slightest doubt of it."

On his way back to the office of Sheriff Hetrick Mr. Burns told his conclusions. In his opinion Heidemann, whose passion for handling children had been fired by the sight of Marie Smith, enticed her into the greenhouse with the promise of flowers to take home to her mother, who was expecting the arrival of an addition to the family and was not well. Locked in the greenhouse with Heidemann she became frightened at his actions and either fell or was pushed into the furnace pit, five feet below the level of the greenhouse floor. In falling her head struck the protruding pipe, causing a fracture of the skull and almost instantaneous death. Her head striking the hard cement floor caused the other fractures of the skull and marks about the body. The burns on the point of the nose and behind the left ear, if they really were burns, probably were caused by contact with red hot coals from the furnace. These were Burns' conclusions.

Heidemann, in the opinion of the detective, fearful lest the body be found there, and himself suspected of the murder, secreted it somewhere in the building, which had never been thoroly searched until the body was found in the woods.

Mr. Burns went no further. His train time had arrived and he returned to New York.

Heidemann Seen In Woods.

Officer Walter Ireton was standing on the bridge at the western outlet of the drift road shortly after daylight the Sunday morning after the Wednesday Marie Smith disappeared. He was startled by a noise in the woods and investigating saw Heidemann and Kruschka emerge from the woods and out onto Ridge avenue. They were hurrying toward the Kruschka place when Ireton shouted to them. They turned, looked at each other and came back down the hill to where the officer was standing.

"What were you doing in there?" asked the officer.

"Gathering laurel," chorused Heidemann and Kruschka, and the latter added, "Come up to the house and get warm." The officer went. Six hours afterwards the dead body of the missing schoolgirl was found. If Marie Smith was murdered and her body carried to the place where it was found, then how can the blood on the ground be accounted for? is asked. But was it blood? The doctors are not certain it was blood. Those who saw it say they are not sure it was blood. It was a brownish sort of liquid almost like water. Serum? Perhaps.

Result of Second Autopsy.

The autopsy performed in Brooklyn early in January by Dr. Otto H. Schultz, coroner's physician of New York, assisted by Dr. W. H. Bishop, an eminent surgeon, disclosed the child's stomach filled with potatoes. Marie's mother said she was not given potatoes for her breakfast the morning she disappeared. She seldom ate potatoes. This disclosure strengthened the belief that the child had been kept a prisoner for a time, at least, and had been fed potatoes. If she was kept a prisoner anywhere Williams had nothing whatever to do with the crime, it was then argued, for Williams' time was accounted for from shortly after noon the day Marie disappeared until he was arrested the following Sunday. Williams therefore was eliminated.

Watch was kept over Heidemann until a few days after New Year's. Then the "shadows" were withdrawn. The next day Heidemann shipped his trunk to New York and he followed the day after. The report that he had sailed for Germany was generally believed.

Leads Gay Life In City.

Heidemann, when he landed in New York, believed he had at last shaken off his pursuers. Arrived at the West Twenty-third street Pennsylvania ferry landing he engaged a cab to take him to his destination, an apartment house on the east side. The cabbie was a Burns man. For days he was followed. He drank much and frequented houses of ill repute. When he left Asbury Park he told his employer he was to be married to a Hippodrome chorus girl. His conduct in New York was altogether unbecoming a man who was about to be married, even to a Hippodrome chorus girl.

BOARD OF TRADE BANQUET APRIL 12

Function Will Be Held at the Coleman House During Easter Week.

To boost the Easter Boosters and lend a bit of moral and financial encouragement to Mrs. M. E. Sexton in her undertaking of opening the Coleman house for Easter week the board of trade last night decided to hold its annual banquet at the Coleman house on the night of Wednesday, April 12. A committee to arrange the banquet will be appointed today or tomorrow and the details will be hurried. It is to be a first class affair to which the ladies, too, will be welcomed, provided the sentiment expressed in last night's meeting prevails.

Secretary Denegar presented the proposition and it met with instant favor. It was suggested that the fee be made $5 for two plates. Mr. Denegar told of the advertising that is being given the Easter opening. He said artistic program cards to hang in the offices and rotundas has been mailed to every hotel in Florida, Georgia, North and South Carolina, Virginia, Maryland, Delaware, the Hudson river district and as far west as Pittsburg and that C. R. Zacharias, vice president of the board, who presided last night in the absence of President William H. Bannard, who was out of town, had mailed, at his own expense, 200 of the cards to garages thruout the east and south.

Two representatives of the Isaac H. Blanchard company, printers, New York, appeared to ask the board's endorsement of a book, historical and descriptive of the Pennsylvania railroad. It is to be a great book, they say, and will be distributed thruout the United States and Canada and abroad. They want to get $2,500 worth of advertising in Asbury Park and wanted the board's stamp of approval as an advertising medium. Objection to action was taken because there was not a fair representation of business men and the matter was laid over until the next meeting.

Express and Freight Rates.

Mr. Denegar reported that an investigation of the complaints made at the last previous meeting that Asbury Park is discriminated against in the matter of express and freight rates, is being made but that a report would not be ready until the next meeting. He said that the investigation thus far had shown ground for complaint in the matter of freight charges but that express rates seemed to be uniform.

The bylaws were amended to change the hour of the board's meetings from 3.30 o'clock in the afternoons to 8 o'clock in the evenings.

Twenty-Three New Members.

Twenty-three new members were elected to the board. They are: J. Henry Drew, Phil Seamon, Samuel A. Reeves, M. E. Sexton, R. B. Armstrong, Ernest F. Mearns, I H. Mowbray, Lyle I. Lothrop, A. Goldberg, Daniel W. Robbins, Rev. F. B. Stockdale, J. A. Waterbury, M. L. Weinstein, Louis P. Croce, J. K. Brounell, Charles J. Black, Arthur Steinbach, Charles M. Baker, Clarence A. Seaman, William A. Stimpson, Clark W. Clayton, C. A. Waters, Jewell Van Dyke.

DIES ON RETURN FROM SHORE VISIT

Miss Alice Cashman Stricken After Trip Here to Rent Summer Cottage.

NEW YORK, March 15.—Unaware that his daughter Alice is dead, John Cashman of Brooklyn, a former member of the board of education, is coming home from the West Indies, having received word by cable that she was "seriously ill." The message was so phrased because the father has a weak heart and it was feared the abrupt announcement of her death might kill him.

In company with her younger sister, Miss Cashman, who was 29 went to Asbury Park last Saturday to engage a cottage for the summer. She was returning when she was taken ill on a Hudson river ferryboat. She was taken to the emergency hospital in lower Manhattan and died there of acute indigestion an hour later. Her brother sent the message to their father, who took the first ship and is expected to arrive in the latter part of this week. Miss Cashman, it is said, was engaged to marry a young mining engineer now in Brazil.

Permission has been granted by the board of health to postpone interment of the body until Mr. Cashman arrives. The funeral will be held Saturday in Mr. Cashman's home, 70 Rutland road, Flatbush.

EDWARD L. HAVENS DEAD.

Edward L. Havens of Wayside is dead from paralysis, in his 72d year. He was born at Hoboken and had lived in Monmouth county since a boy of 14. Se served three years with Company G, Fourteenth regiment. He was the first blacksmith in this section of Monmouth county, following the trade until two years ago. A widow and seven children survive.

MUST PRESENT CLAIMS.

Notice is given by Dr. H. S. Kinmonth, assignee of H. Mount Rue, that he has filed with the county surrogate a list of all creditors and the amounts of their respective claims against the assignor. Creditors are notified to present their claims for filing within the next 30 days, with the surrogate.

LITIGATION THREATENED IN TENBROECK ESTATE

Action to Compel Settlement Said to Be Contemplated by Mrs. Josephine Richardson Against Executors, Mrs. F. Ten Broeck and Miss Leah Ten Broeck.

An action to compel a settlement of the estate of the late Frank L. TenBroeck, it is understood, will shortly be started by Mrs. Josephine TenBroeck Richardson, one of the heirs, thru her attorneys, Vroom, Dickson and Scammell of Trenton. The executors, Mrs. F. L. TenBroeck and Miss Leah Ten Broeck, it is declared, have never made a report.

Mrs. Richardson refused to discuss the case this morning other than to deny that the action had been started. She would not deny, however, that such suit is now in preparation. Asked whether the recent sale of her mother's interest in the estate to William J. Duane would be questioned, Mrs. Richardson replied that she didn't care to say anything about that.

S. A. Patterson, who represents Mrs. TenBroeck, had no knowledge of the suit when questioned this morning. Asked if he knew whether Mrs. Richardson had made a demand for an accounting of the estate, Mr. Patterson replied that she might have.

Mrs. TenBroeck said she knew of no suit, friendly or otherwise, which was designed to settle up the estate. The estate remains for the benefit of the children, she declared, and there is no question of a settlement.

It is estimated that Mr. TenBroeck's estate, at his death, was worth $30,000. Since then, it is declared, it has been encumbered. One of the objects of Mrs. Richardson's action, it is understood, will be to clear the question of power to involve the estate in debt, so that any settlement of the estate that might be effected in the future or disposition of it would not hinder the heirs in the action.

BOOSTERS HEAR SPLENDID REPORTS AT BIG SESSION

General Committee Holds Enthusiastic Session at A. P. W. Clubhouse

Hearty enthusiasm pervaded the meeting of the general Boosters' committee at the Asbury Park Wheelmen's clubhouse last night and fairly bubbled over in speeches in which the chairmen of the different committees and others told of the splendid work already accomplished and to be accomplished to make the 1911 Easter season in the Queen Resort by far the greatest in its history. The spirit of cooperation manifested augurs well for the success of the undertaking, and the whole was set off by the report of the financial committee, which gave just the encouragement to spur the Boosters on to greater effort.

Superintendent L. W. Berry of the New York and Long Branch Railroad company attended the meeting and in his usual determined manner made the Boosters understand that the Central railroad would lend very material aid in the booming of Asbury Park during the Easter period thru extensive advertising of the Easter celebration here. Mr. Berry said he had talked with officials of the Central and they had told him they were only waiting to do for Asbury Park what they are already doing for Atlantic City and Lakewood.

"What they want is your advertising material," said Mr. Berry. "They want to know what to advertise. They should be furnished with advertising matter the same as Lakewood and At-

FLOWERS FOR MOTHER LURED LITTLE SCHOOLGIRL TO DEATH

On Promises of Posies Marie Smith Accompanied Frank Heidemann Into Woods, Only To Be Struck Down When the Enormity of His Offense Dawned Upon Florist

PRESS PRESENTS HIS ABJECT CONFESSION

Defense Probably Will Be That He Is An Adolescent Paranoiac or Moral Pervert. Watch Kept Over Prisoner to Prevent Any Attempt at Suicide, Which It Is Said He Has Contemplated

WILL FIGHT TO BAR THE CONFESSION FROM TRIAL

Frank E. Heidemann's confession of the murder of Marie Smith was obtained by The Press this morning. Its details, more shocking and revolting than imagined, show that the slaying of the little schoolgirl, while possibly not premeditated, was deliberate and accomplished in the most cold blooded and heinous manner. Many of the details are unprintable.

Heidemann enticed the girl into the Kruschka yard with the promise of flowers for her mother, then led her into the woods and crushed in her skull with a hammer when she repulsed his advances. He returned to Kruschka's with the hammer, washed it and replaced it in the greenhouse. Half an hour later he ate a hearty dinner at the Kruschka home.

"I was standing at the entrance to the Kruschka driveway when Marie came along that Wednesday morning," said Heidemann, retelling the story he has repeated many times already, "and a sudden desire came over me to possess her. I called to Marie and asked her if she didn't want some flowers to take home to her mother.

"Marie came across the road to me. I took her by the hand and led her thru the yard and into the woods back of the house, across the street and into the other patch of woods.

"Marie began crying. I tried to quiet her by telling her not to cry—that I wouldn't hurt her.

"I saw some blood on my little finger. It frightened me. Fearing the result of her going home and telling her parents what I had done I drew from my pocket a hammer with which I had been working in the greenhouse.

"I struck her one blow in the head. Marie died almost immediately, but to make her death certain I tied her hairribbon and skating cap around her throat.

"Thoroly frightened, I hurried back to the Kruschka place and wiped the blood from the hammer and hung it up in its accustomed place.

"I never went near the body after that."

Read to Heidemann.

Heidemann was seen in his cell in the Freehold jail. A detective present at the interview read off several sheets of typewritten matter to Heidemann and he was asked if the statements contained in the confession were correct.

The young German who, when arraigned before Justice Voorhees yesterday on an indictment charging him with the wilful murder of the little schoolgirl, admitted his guilt, replied that all of the essential facts were correct. Some of the minor statements, he said, were untrue.

"If some of the things are not true, then why not tell us the whole story, from beginning to end?" Heidemann was asked.

Unfalteringly and without the display of emotion Heidemann told his story. He appeared relieved after its telling and asked that he be left alone.

Fears of Suicide.

It became known today that the real reason for posting a watch over Heidemann during his incarceration was to prevent him from committing suicide. It is rumored he had threatened to take his life, and his suspenders had been taken from him. He was not allowed anything with which he could injure himself.

The trial of Heidemann, which was been set for Monday, April 17, is expected to be a sensational one, and every effort likely will be made by his counsel, former Judge William T. Hoffman of Englishtown and Andrew J. C. Stokes of Freehold, to keep the confession from becoming a part of the evidence.

Insanity Probable Defense.

Counsel for the accused man, appointed by the court yesterday, have not disclosed what their line of defense will be. It is generally believed, however, that an effort will be made to prove that Heidemann is an adolescent paranoiac or a moral pervert. If his counsel succeed in establishing his instanity they probably will endeavor to have him sent to an insane asylum rather than to the electric chair.

Judge Hoffman is noted for his defense of murderers. He represented McAllister, Death and Kerr in the famous Jennie Bosscheiter murder case in Paterson a number of years ago, and succeeded in securing prison sentences for the trio when it was generally believed at the time of the trial that all would expiate the crime on the gallows.

Jury Sees Written Confession.

Heidemann's written confession, made at Atlantic City the day before his arrest on March 15, was the only confession presented to the grand jury. Randolph H. Miller, who has worked on the case since the day after the child's disappearance, and who was a member of the grand jury, was not present in the jury room yesterday when the vote was taken on the Heidemann indictment.

The confession was in German and lacked many of the essential details disclosed by Heidemann in his subsequent confessions. But it contained sufficient damaging evidence to warrant the jurymen in bringing in an indictmet against him for murder in the first degree.

Heidemann Regains Composure.

Superintendent L. W. Berry Is About to Introduce New System of Train Dispatching—Better and Quicker Control Over Entire System Claimed.

Superintendent L. W. Berry of the New York and Long Branch Railroad company is about to introduce a new system of train dispatching along the line that he controls by eliminating the telegraph and substituting the telephone. This latest move on the part of Mr. Berry to make the New York and Long Branch one of the most modernly equipped roads in the country will not only tend to increase the companys facilities but will, it is claimed, also give greater safety in the dispatching of trains along this line, and will give the train dispatcher at Long Branch better and quicker control over the system.

The telephone system to be used will be similar to the common battery system just inaugurated by the New York Telephone company in this section. The selectors will be furnished by the National Selector company. A pair of No. 9 copper wires will extend from the main office at Long Branch to the 32 stations along the line, each of which will be equipped with a telephone. Under the new order of things telegraph operators will not be required in the different stations.

Wire for the new system has already been ordered by Superintendent Berry. The change will cost the company about $10,000. It is expected the telephone system will be in operation within a month or six weeks.

GRAND JURY HEARS OF SOOY ASSAULT

PERTH AMBOY, March 31.—Two cases founded on complaints and information furnished to the prosecutor's office by Perth Amboy newspaper reporters were heard by the grand jury at New Brunswick. One had to do with the alleged efforts of William Walters, marshal of this city, to prevail upon Mabel Wildy, wanted as a witness in a disorderly house case, to leave the jurisdiction of the Middlesex courts.

The second case was brought by Carroll F. Sooy, formerly of Asbury Park, against Hugh McCardle, charging him with assault and battery. McCardle, it is alleged, met Sooy on Smith street, knocked him down and beat and kicked him and then escaped to Staten island. He is now held at Stapleton, Staten island, awaiting requisition. Sooy had a number of witnesses, most of whom were not called.

Council Debates Relative Merits of Different Materials. Majority of Property Owners Favor Wood Block. To Make Decision Next Monday Night.

The contract for paving Main street from the south side of Summerfield avenue south to the city line was not awarded at the adjourned meeting of council last night. A controversy over the respective qualities of Wood block, brick, asphalt and bithulithic raged with uncheckable virulence for three hours with the result that the decision was adjourned until Monday night, when it will be determined whether to go on with any part of the improvement before September.

Mayor Appleby was the champion of delay and bithulithic in equal proportions. The mayor said to go on with the contract now would be taking a great risk and was calculated to witness disordered streets and great annoyance to the property owners all summer. It is true the wood block people offered to give a bond for $10,000 to complete the work before June. The mayor didn't think it could be done. Mr. Winckler, whose first choice is metropolitan brick and second choice wood block, was of the opinion that a $10,000 bond ought to be enough to secure completion of the job on time, especially in view of the fact that the wood block company, as stated by its representative, was unusually well prepared to proceed without delay in the work.

A storm pipe has to be laid from Bamman's corner to Wesley lake and this feature of the proposed improvement is giving concern to the advocates of an immediate contract. The bithulithic representative in support of his pavement offered to give a guarantee to retop the pavement at the end of five years for 10 cents per square yard if the pavement showed signs of hard wear. This brought the United States Wood Preserving company man to his feet with the assertion that his company would resurface for nothing at the end of five years if the wood pavement frayed out. Other companies made all sorts of promises and offers and the property owners were given a hearing on their preferences. A. D. Mcabe favored Metropolitan brick. G. William Treat and a number of others favored wood block. Some favored bithulithic but the majority of names and frontage stood compactly in the petitions filed for wood block in preference to any other pavement. The discussion was kept up until 11 o'clock when on motion it was decided to postpone action on the bids, as tabulated by Engineer Rogers, until Monday night to enable the street committee to again get in touch with the property owners and also to consult with Manager Hazelrigg of the Atlantic Coast company with view to ascertaining what proportion of the cost of the improvement his company will agree to pay.

G. William Treat, proprietor of Treat's grocery, was a leading advocate of wood block and immediate work. He stated that the lower section of Main street was in such condition that teams could not pass on either side of the car tracks and that it was a better proposition for the city to accept the proposal of wood block people to pave the two lower squares this spring and complete the work in September than to waste money in patching up the street with additional rock. He said that particular pains had been taken by him to investigate the condition of Market street, Philadelphia, on Wednesday and that Mr. Moore, of B. S. Janney and Son, leading wholesale grocers in that city, who had at first opposed the adoption of wood block, admitted to him they were in error and that wood block had proved the best pavement in Philadelphia and was favored by teamsters, business men and automobilists. He added that the proposition of the bithulithic people to resurface the street for ten cents a yard was an admission by them that the pavement would be in need of repairs in five years and that the agreement of the wood block representatives to do the same thing without cost showed their confidence in the lasting qualities of the pavement. "We do not want a sheet pavement at any price," he added. "They all wear in ruts and holes. Our preference is for a unit pavement and as between brick and wood block the latter is by far our prefe.ence."

WOMEN SPEAKERS AT MEN'S BANQUET

Carry off Honors Responding to Toasts at First M. E. Church.

Women carried off the honors in responding to the toasts assigned them at the third banquet of the Men's Social union at the First M. E. church last evening. It was ladies' night.

About 100 persons enjoyed the excellent menu served by Caterer Joseph R. Weir. Seats in the church dining-room were taken shortly after 8 o'clock. The Rev. J. B. Kulp of Bradley Beach said grace. President J. Frank Cobb, in brief preliminary welcome greeting, spoke in happy vein. He also complimented the entertainment committee—Dr. J. H. Bryan and J. G. Coleman—for the fine pogram arranged, and the banquet committee—J. P. Hickman, H. E. Farry, F. M. Schuppan, L. M. Reeves and J. F. Cobb. Mr. Hickman has been chairman of this committee for three years.

When the Rev. Dr. C. H. Mead was introduced as the toastmaster there was immediately expression of appreciation in hearty applause. Dr. Mead's witty opening remarks and his introduction of the speakers of the evening caused much laughter. His stock of humorous stories seemed inexhaustible.

WISCONSIN FAVORS VOTES FOR WOMEN

MADISON, Wis., March 31.—The state senate today passed a bill granting statewide right of suffrage to women in Wisconsin in all state elections. The bill has passed the lower house and will become a law provided the referendum provision is favorably endorsed by a vote of the people at the coming general election.

WOOD REPLACES CEMENT

The Avon boro council met in special session last night and awarded a contract for replacing the cement floor at the south side of the Active fire company's engine house with a wooden one. John LeCompte was given the contract for $156 and began work today. The only other bid was from Lavance Brothers for $175. Mayor John Thomson was not present and President W. C. Snyder took the chair. The reason given for replacing the cement floor is that one of the horses slipped and fell in answering an alarm recently. The new floor is to be of spruce with chestnut sleepers.

WITH SHEAF OF CAPIASES OFFICERS SWEEP "AVENUE"

Capiases today sought out west side proprietors of alleged gambling and disorderly houses and speakeasies and the afternoon train bore off a dozen or more to Freehold. This morning Policemen Broderick, Mooney and Lippincott and Special Officer Haines arrested Andy Carbona, proprietor of "The Coffin," a Springwood avenue resort; John Lee, who maintains 110 Garfield avenue; Joe Walters of 1023 Springwood; Benny Pessuite, a South Main street barber; Morris Popok of 914 Springwood avenue, Marry Davis, colored, of 22 Applegate alley; Frank Virginia, Alice May and Frank Payne. Late this afternoon policemen are completing the round up.

One or two were lost in the excitement when the report spread thru the district that "papers are in town." One woman sold out her household goods and skipped before the officers had the warrants but the west side men, wise to the movements of the shady citizens of the avenue, laid their plans so well that there was no other to escape the drag net. The "papers," it is said are partly the result of county and partly of city activity.

STRONG CONVICTED OF KILLING WIFE

New Jersey Farmer Is Sentenced to Thirty Years for Second Degree Murder.

MAY'S LANDING, N. J., March 31.—William H. Strong was convicted of wife murder in the second degree by the verdict of the jury, reached at 7 o'clock last evening after one hour's deliberation, and sentenced by Justice Thomas W. Trenchard to a term of 30 years in state prison at hard labor.

The old farmer, who was 60 years of age his last birthday, took his sentence calmly and was led away to a cell, where he was placed under guard to prevent any attempt at suicide, tho he assured the officers they need not worry about him, as he expected to have a new trial. Counsel also said an appeal would be taken and motion made for a new trial.

When the courthouse bell announced that a verdict had been reached at 7 o'clock, men, women and children came

FINAL ROLL CALL FOR OLD VETERAN

Peter Tolly, Father of Luke Tolly of This City, Dies In Soldiers' Home.

Peter Tolly, father of Luke Tolly of 8 Pharo avenue, West Grove, a baker employed at Ira Clayton's Sewall avenue bakery, died yesterday at the Soldiers' home at Kearny, aged 76 years. Undertaker Fred E. Farry of this city left this morning for Kearny to bring the body to the son's home here. Sunday morning at 8 o'clock the body will be taken to Freehold, where services will be held at 10 o'clock in the Catholic church at that place. Burial will be made in the Freehold cemetery.

Mr. Tolly is survived by a widow and four other children besides Luke. They are James of Farmingdale, William of Trenton, Mrs. Julia Bates of Glen Falls, N. Y., and Mrs. Annie Sheldon of Fort Ann, N. Y. Mrs. Tolly, who has been confined to her bed as an invalid during the last two years, lives with her son in West Grove.

Born in Ireland, Mr. Tolly came to this country when 19 years of age. He had since then been a resident of this section and for 30 years was engaged in farming at Farmingdale. In the Civil war he was wounded in the hip by a bullet and never regained his health and strength. He went to the soldiers' home during December, when his health failed him entirely.

WANT DAMAGES FOR CREDIT GIVEN DEAL COMPANY

TRENTON, March 31.—Testimony in the suit of the Standard Underground Cable company of Pittsburg, against Samuel Ludlow, jr., vice president of the Second National bank of Jersey City for $60,000 damages due to credit given the New Jersey Consolidated Water and Light company of Deal, Monmouth county, by reason of a letter from Mr. Ludlow, president of the latter company, was finished before a jury, with United States Judge Reilstab sitting here yesterday. The case was summed up this morning.

It is the contention of the plaintiffs that credit was given to the Consolidated company on the strength of Mr. Ludlows statement that there were no obligations hanging over the company, whereas testimony was produced to show that the Consolidated was in process of being reformed from the old Deal company.

Defense was that Mr. Ludlow did not consider the obligations of the old company were obligations of the new company when he wrote the letter on which credit was extended.

Robert J. Beach moved his suit for damages against Benjamin P. Morris, of Long Branch, in the United States circuit court before Judge Cross yesterday. It may be finished today.

The plaintiff claims money for laying out a real estate plot for a company of which Mr. Morris was treasurer.

KAPLAN IS GUILTY OF ILLEGAL SALE

Trial of Irving Brown on Three Indictments Will Be Held Next Thursday.

FREEHOLD, March 31.—Samuel Kaplan was convicted yesterday of illegal sale of liquor at 906 Suringwood avenue, Asbury Park, sentence being deferred until next Thursday. Kaplan was tried three weeks ago and the jury was discharged after being out three hours and failing to agree on a verdict. Yesterday the jury returned a verdict of guilty after being out about three-quarters of an hour, but after court had adjourned.

The trial of Irving Brown, whose sentence of one year for keeping a gambling house at 149 Main street, Asbury Park, was set aside last week on his plea of ill advisement, and against whom two additional indictment of maintaining a disorderly house and illegal sale of liquor have been brought, was laid over until next week, when the three indictments will be taken up together.

T. M. CHAMBERLIN CALLED BY DEATH

FREEHOLD, March 31.—Thomas Mount Chamberlin, assistant postmaster at Freehold since April 1, 1900, died at his home on Broad street at midnight last night after an illness of but two weeks. Death was caused by pneumo-thorax. He was in his 71st year. Surviving are a widow and two children, Willard Parker Chamberlin of Englewood and Mrs. Ella Combs of Freehold. Three brothers and a sister are also living. They are Joseph K. Chamberlin of Cranbury, John Chamberlin of near Hightstown, Abijah Chamberlin and Miss Jane Chamberlin, both of Perrineville. Funeral arrangements have not yet been completed.

when the indictment was read to him in court early yesterday afternoon, after pleading guilty to the charge, was taken back to his cell, where he quickly regained his composure and talked cheerfully on other subjects than the murder. He explained his fear in court by saying he believed he was to be killed then and there.

Doesn't Use Morphine.

Heidemann has not used any morphine since his incarceration, nor has he asked for any, the jail officials say. Heidemann's "chum," who in reality was a Burns detective, declares that during the time he shadowed Heidemann, a period covering many weeks, he never saw him use morphine. Heidemann displayed no feeling of resentment toward his "chum" when he revealed himself in his true light. Heidemann merely remarked that he was very clever, and that it had always been his wish to become a detective.

After he had been appointed counsel for Heidemann yesterday Judge Hoffman was heard to remark, "Well, the man has said he is guilty, now I guess it is up to me to prove that he is a liar."

Prosecutor John S. Applegate, jr., of Red Bank, today was asked for a copy of Heidemann's confession. He refused on the ground that its publication would prejudice the case. "The defense would use it against us," he said. The prosecutor was informed that The Press had the details of the confession, but had heretofore withheld their publication in order to aid in the prosecution of the case.

"Heidemann has pleaded guilty and his counsel have been appointed and will learn from him just what he has said in his confession. Under those circumstances do you think publication of the confession would injure your case?" the prosecutor was asked over the phone.

"Where did you get the confession?" was the Yankee-like reply.

"We haven't the full confession, merely the gist of it," he was told.

"That's what I thought," he said. "I have never known a newspaper yet to suppress facts they have in their possession when they want to use them."

"Do you agree to the publication of the confession if we have it?" he was asked.

According to Heidemann's confession Marie Smith was killed at about 11.15 o'clock on the morning of Wednesday, Nov. 9. This upsets the theory that the child had been kept prisoner for a time and given at least one meal before she was killed. This theory was generally believed when it was announced that physicians who conducted the autopsy in Brooklyn when the body of the dead child was exhumed had stated that the child's stomach was filled with a substance that looked very much like potatoes. It is now believed that this substance was either the breakfast the child had eaten before leaving home, or something she had eaten in school or on her way home from school.

All the statements made by Heidemann in his confession are said to have been corroborated by the detectives. The appearance of scars on the child's nose and at the top of the left ear, believed to have been caused by burns, have not been explained. It is thought, however, that the scars were not burns, but bruises.

Parents Are Satisfied.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Smith parents of Marie Smith when seen yesterday by a Press man expressed their gratification at the unexpected break down of Heidemann and their entire confidence in his guilt. As matter of fact Mrs. Smith said she had all along suspected Heidemann, who was the man most likely to have been near Marie on the day of her disappearance. She said she had often talked it over with her husband. The fact that Heidemann stood only a few feet away from Marie, according to the testimony of Mrs. Davidson, on the day Marie returned from school for the last time and yet pretended not to have seen her was, she said, a suspicious circumstance and now that he had confessed stamped the murderer as a man well able to look out for himself when the officers got after him.

Mrs. Smith said she was very glad Maries slayer was in custody. She wanted justice, she added, but no vengeance. If it was the opinion of the people that Heidemann should be executed, then he should receive that sentence. A man of his character, Mrs. Smith said, should not be allowed to go at large and commit other murders. Nothing could bring Marie back to them and altho she was glad Heidemann was in the clutches of the law it could not heal the grief to which she was subjected by Marie's untimely end.

Peter Smith, father of the murdered child, when told that Heidemann had confessed in court and admitted the murder of his child, was visibly pleased. "It won't bring Marie back to me," said Mr. Smith, "but we will have justice and that's what we ask for—only the justice the law gives, but that in full." Mr. Smith praised the Burns detectives and Sheriff Hetrick, and Randolph Miller who secured them and attributed the arrest and confession entirely to their efforts and skill. He said they deserved the reward and should receive it without question. Mr. Smith was disinclined to talk about the tragedy but returned to his work at the Flavelle factory with a smile upon his face that eloquently disclosed his innermost thoughts.

ENTERTAINS FRIENDS

Miss Lulu E. Tucker and Miss G. E. Williams entertained several friends last evening in the home of Miss L. E. Tucker, 53 Ridge avenue. After playing games all partook of a dainty luncheon. The table was beautifully decorated in pink and green. Those present were: Miss Elsie Newman, Miss Frances Hunt, Miss Grace Smith, Miss Esther Boykin, Miss Ethel Wilkinson, Miss Lillian Reed, Miss Jane Tucker, Miss Georgie Williams, Mrs. Gussie Tucker, Miss Lulu Tucker, Oscar Burns, Leon Francis, Charles Williams, Daniel Jefferson, Walter Williams, Samuel Jones, Frederick King, Isaac Aldridge.

MRS. LIPPINCOTT DYING

Mrs. Jane M. Lippincott, wife of Joseph R. Lippincott and mother of Policeman Charles Lippincott is very lo at her home, 1104 Fourth avenue, and her death is expected at any time. Mrs. Lippincott is 79 years old and has been ill for some time. Recently gangrene developed and physicians gave up hope of prolonging her life. Relatives are constantly at the bedside and with loving care are making the inevitable end as comfortable as possible.

RECEPTION GIVEN REV. APPLEGATE

Members of the congregation of the Second M. E. church tendered a reception to Rev. Steadman Applegate and family at the parsonage, 1143 Asbury avenue, last evening for the purpose of welcoming them back for their fourth year here. The reception, which was arranged by the Ladies' Aid society and the official board of the church, was largely attended.

A. B. Bryan acted as master of ceremonies and called on a number of the leading members of the church to extend greetings to the pastor. There were many expressions of good will and pleasure that Dr. Applegate had been returned for another year. Among those who extended greeting and hearty welcome to the pastor and his family were: A. G. Rogers, William Jackson, H. Leith, Fred Black, J. Soden, Mrs. William Jackson, Mrs. John Howland and Mrs. J. Forsythe.

After the greetings the evening was given up to social enjoyment and a brief program was presented. Mrs. A. B. Bryan and Miss Emma Rogers rendered instrumental music and Arthur Rogers sang several solos. A quartet composed of A. B. Bryan, William Jones, Arthur Rogers and Dr. Applegate also sang. By request Miss Eleanor Devlan gave two readings which were greatly enjoyed.

A pleasing feature of the reception was the presentation to Dr. and Mrs. Applegate each a beautiful bouquet of carnations and gifts of handsomely embroidered household linens.

Dr. and Mrs. Applegate responded to the greetings and welcoming addresses in pleasing strain and also thank their guests for the gifts.

Delicious refreshments were served by the members of the Ladies' Aid.

JAILED ON SERIOUS CHARGE

TOMS RIVER, March 31.—The marital troubles of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Bogert were in the limelight this week, when Bogert had a warrant issued against Robert Waddill of Lakewood charging him with being the disturber of his domestic peace and happiness. A raid was made on the home of Mrs. Bogert on upper Hyers street and she and Waddill were caught there. He was held under $500 bail by Justice Ellwell, and sent to jail as he was unable to get a bondsman.

Some time ago Bogert and his wife separated by mutual consent and broke up their home. She began a suit for divorce. He will now file a cross bill.

BARACAS RAISE $50

The Baraca class of the Baptist church raised $50 last night for pews in the church to be used by the Baracas and any young men who may drop in to the services. The Philatheas will also have separate pews, which will be placed on the opposite side of the church. The Baracas last night were treated to ice cream by the Philatheas.

AN ALL-ROUND SUCCESS

The musicale and tea given last evening in the temple of St. Paul church, Ocean Grove, by the Ladies' circle of that church, was fairly attended. The program as announced in The Press was rendered in a very pleasing manner and was received with much favor. Musically, financially and socially the event was a success.

In the case of Mrs. Flora Wurtzel against her husband, Jacob Wurtzel, for alimony, Samuel A. Patterson, counsel for Mrs. Wurtzel, said today that the chancery court had put Wurtzel under $2,000 bail instead of $200 as erroneously reported in local papers.

PARTY AT MANN HOME.

A surprise party was tendered Miss Mildred Mann at her home, 607 Bond street, last evening. Many games were played and Mr. Mann played several selections on the organ. Among those present were Ethel Curtis, Ruth Brown, race Brown, Ella Aronstom, Annie Aronstom, Mabel Curtis, Edna M. Curtis, Henrietta Havens, Maud Howe, Olive Howe, Everett Brown, Benjamin Fees, Franklin Fees, Seymour Underwood, Morgan McDuffie and Eugene Wintermantel.

SMASHES KING PIN.

A bowling tournament was begun on the Y. M. C. A. alleys last night but it was unexpectedly postponed after two games had been rolled when a strong armed athlete sent a ball crashing down the alley and smashed the king pin. The tournament will be resumed tomorrow night. The Red Bank trip, planned for last night, was indefinitely postponed.

MR. AND MRS. FRANCIS RETURN.

Ex-Sheriff and Mrs. C. Asa Francis, who have been spending the winter in New York, have returned to their Atlantic avenue home, Long Branch, for the season. Mr. Francis will build at the corner of High street and Bath avenue in the near future, where they will take up their residence.

LIGHTNING DAMAGES HOUSE.

During Wednesday night's electrical storm the summer home of John Achelis at North Beach, Seabright, was struck by lightning. To extinguish the blaze it was necessary to cut a hole in the roof. The house was considerably damaged by water before the firemen succeeded in extinguishing the blaze.

Nathan T. King, Miss Josephine Stewart, Carroll White and Miss Florence Stewart of Bradley Beach were visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William T. King at Poplar Sunday.

The work of reconstruction has been commenced on the old Ross pavilion, which was recently moved from the Ocean Grove beach to Main street in Bradley Beach. The building is to be made into stores and flats.

A cake, pie, bread and delicatessen sale will be held at Palmateer and Howland's grocery tomorrow morning and afternoon for the benefit of the First Baptist church. Mrs. Philip Lance and Mrs. Wesley Williams will be in charge.

MUST ATTEND SCHOOL

Morris Goldstein of 17 Applegate alley was fined $15 by Judge Borden in police court this morning and sentence was suspended for so long a time as his son, Hyman, 16 years old, shall attend school regularly. Goldstein appeared in answer to a complaint of the board of education. Secretary Egbert Close of the school board appeared against him. The Goldstein boy is said to spend most of his time on the street corners selling papers when he should be in school.

ADDRESSES SCHOOL BOYS

Secretary G. Cornelius Baker of the Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon addressed the boys of the Prospect avenue school on "Success." Mr. Baker told the boys of experiences in athletic training camps and the methods athletes used to become successful. Carrying out this theme, he showed them that the same methods of the athlete must be carried into business success.

BEDELL IS EASY MONEY FOR CROSS

Is Knocked Out In Second Round--Burns-Attell Bout In On Tonight.

NEW YORK, March 31.—With crushing, lightning-like blows, executed with neatness and despatch, also with deadly precision, Leach Cross, the east side molar surgeon, knocked out Joe Bedell of Brooklyn in the second round of what was scheduled to be a 10-round boxing bout, at the Whirlwind A. C., in Brooklyn last night. A right cross to the jaw, following a stiff left hook, did the work.

It was the second meeting between these boxers. In the previous affair Cross gave Bedell similar treatment to the jaw, but only after nearly 10 rounds of hard fighting.

Abe Attell, champion featherweight, will meet Frankie Burns, champion bantamweight of New Jersey, in a 10-round contest at the National Sporting club tonight. Attell is going out of his class in order to give the aspiring Jerseyite an even break.

Attell will weigh in at 118 pounds, ringside, the lowest weight he has made in many years. This is four pounds lighter than he scaled when he met Owen Moran and Jem Driscoll. However, he is confident he will enter the ring with his usual speed and stamina.

Frankie Burns is in prime condition, having trained under the direction of Jimmy DeForest and with Pal Moore as his sparing partner at Allenhurst. Knowing that a decision over Attell will gain him international fame, he proposes to carry the champion along at a terrific pace. Many experts believe that under the weight conditions Burns will have an excellent chance. Burns once gained a popular decision over Johnny Coulon in a 10-round bout here and is regarded as one of the best, if not the best, lad in the bantamweigh class. In addition to the main bout, Managing Director Tom O'Rourke has arranged a preliminary bout between Frank Herron of Pawtucket and Joe Uvanni. This pair recently found the limelight in the welter division and will surely make the fur fly.

There will be three other preliminary bouts.

DICK FERRIS, WHO PLANS TO SEIZE LOWER CALIFORNIA.

Learning of the reported plan of the Mexican insurrectos, which is to seize Lower California, Dick Ferris, manager of the Panama-Pacific road race, who says he is at the head of the 100 representative American citizens, wrote to President Diaz of Mexico asking him if he would receive a representative of the 100 and arrange to have the piece of land which the rebels are seeking turned over to them. The purpose of this movement, quoting the dispatch to Diaz, is to "establish a friendly and modern republic under progressive officials, to be known as the republic of Diaz, which changes the map of the world and perpetuates your worthy name, and in view of the completion of the Panama canal cannot help but result in tremendous commercial value to your esteemed republic. The men back of this movement are unfavorable to the revolutionists and are farseeing, progressive American spirits who wish to be identified with advancement and who are willing to honor and respect your name." Diaz's reply was that he refused the proposition. Now Ferris has written to General Orosco, one of the leaders of the insurrectos, telling him that it is the intention of American citizens to occupy Lower California peacefully if possible, forcibly if otherwise. The object for this scheme as stated by Ferris himself is primarily to give the world a new republic and later turn it over to the United States.

BOOSTER BANQUET OF ASBURY TRADE BOARD

Festive Function at Coleman House Last Night Most Pretentious Ever Given by City Body—Strictly Cold Water Affair—Glowing Speeches.

Boosters were boosted at the annual banquet of the board of trade at the Coleman house last night. It was the biggest and most pretentious dinner the board has ever given and typified the spirit that made the Easter season movement such a huge success. There was but one theme—boosting. Each of the several speakers used it and it was popular and fitting. The dinner was a formal affair and the spacious, prettily decorated and carefully arranged dining room, just comfortably filled, presented a very interesting and pleasing picture while the dinner was in progress and thru the speaking that followed. There were just about as many women as men at the tables and they sprinked about a fine profusion of color. The speakers were highly entertaining.

Mayor T. Frank Appleby was the toastmaster. Speakers were George W. Pittenger, president of the Easter Boosters association; Thomas P. Fay,

FEELS FINE AFTER FAST OF 14 DAYS

J. G. Warner Declares He Suffered No Pangs of Hunger and Is In Better Health.

Feeling strong and greatly improved in health generally, his eyes improved and other slight disorders corrected, J. G. Warner last night concluded a fast of 14 days, partaking of light meal of solids. Mr. Warner, who is inclined to stoutness, reduced his weight 22 pounds. He corrected a local catarrhal trouble of the nose and generally improved his condition.

Mr. Warner declares that during no stage of his fasting did he feel hungry. The first two days he felt languid and sleepy but as the days grew into a week, he became stronger and more energetic. During the fast he drank unfermented grape juice, three glasses a day. The last two days he took a little milk. A more substantial diet began last ngiht.

Mr. and Mrs. Warner returned to their home from a five months' trip thru the New England states about three weeks ago. A week later Mr. Warner began his fast. Mrs. Warner, too, is a beliver in fasting and last year, by giving up food for a week, she cured herself of seasickness.

The Warners frequently visit Savannah, Ga., in the winter and Mrs. Warner always had been seasick. She ended her fast the day she sailed and made the trip with no discomfort whatever.

OFFERS TO TRIPLE BOOSTER DONATION

C. R. Zacharias Enthusiastic Over Present Success and Bright Prospects.

The true Booster spirit intensified is shown in the following letter received from C. R. Zacharias, proprietor of the Eagle Hall garage. It was thru the work of such leading spirits as Mr. Zacharias that the present Easter season met with the success that has been accorded it. Now Mr. Zacharias is prepared to go into the proposition for next year with increased energy. His letter follows:

"Editor Press: Owing to the weather conditions the result of the Easter movement has not been as good as was anticipated. I, however, feel so greatly encouraged over the advance made that I am willing to double my subscription to the present movement for a similar effort to be made in 1912 with the understanding that after the winding up of the present movement subscriptions be secured immediately, payment to be made in July or August of the coming season.

"I will triple my subscription with the understanding that the space in the newspapers be tripled for 1912 advertising, and that we engage Creatore's band now for the 1912 Lenten season, and begin boosting early.

"C. R. ZACHARIAS."

LEADING MEN TO EXTEND WELCOME

Mr. Owens, Dr. Shepherd and Mayor Appleby to Give Conference Greeting.

When the annual conference of the A. M. E. Zion church of New Jersey opens in the local church, on Springwood avenue, Wednesday morning, May 10, the Rev. Marshall Owens pastor of St. Paul M. E. church, Ocean Grove, will extend welcome greetings to the visiting pastors and delegates in behalf of and as the representative of the New Brunswick district preachers' organization, which holds Monday morning session weekly at Ocean Grove. Invitation was extended to Dr Owens thru the Rev. I. B. Walters, pastor of the church in which the conference is to be held.

Dr. Fred S. Shepherd, city superintendent of schools, has accepted invitation to extend greeting as representative of the educational interests, and Mayor T. Frank Appleby will speak in behalf of the city.

The conference will be in session about a week. Bishop G. W. Clinton will preside. In addition to the Zion church the use of St. Augustine Episcopal church basement has been secured in which to serve meals to the ministers and others attending the conference. St Augustine church is conveniently near the place of holding the conference, on Sylvan avenue.

TRINITY CHURCH EASTER ELECTION

Report of T. J. G. Pugh, Treasurer of New Church Fund, Raises Flurry.

The annual parish meeting of the members of Trinity church for the election of two wardens and seven vestrymen was held in the church last night, the Rector, the Rev. W. N. Baily, presiding and Harry Duffield acting as secretary. Coyte was re-elected senior warden and John Hubbard was re-elected warden.

There was only a little contest in the vote for vestrymen. Jacob H. Doll declined a re-nomination and nine were nominated for the place of seven vestrymen. Those elected and the votes they received were as follows: Joshua N. Moore, 23; D. S. Burton, 22; George Harrison, 21; J. D. Taylor, 21; E. S. Farrow, 19; Mr. Durham, 17; and Harry Duffield 14. The unsuccessful candidates were Mr. Boyce, 9, and Mr. Van Sant, 7. Mr. Van Sant stated that he did not desire to be elected.

For deputies to the divison convention Messrs. Joseph Coyte, J. D. Taylor and John Forman were elected, and the following were elected as alternates: Clarence W. Brazer, Edward and James Stroud.

Joshua N. Moore, treasurer of the church submitted his annual report which was satisfactory as usual, showing the parish to be in a sound and growing condition financially.

The report of Thomas J. G. Pugh, as treasurer of the new church fund, addressed to the rector, caused a little ripple, the facts and recommendations therein apparently not being palatable to some of the members. Opinion was divided on the point. Some suggested that the treasurer should withdraw his recommendations and all statements except the bare figures, but he declined to do so, and said that the report spoke for itself; that if the facts hurt, it was not his fault, and the meeting could do with the report as it pleased. Finally it was ordered that the statistical part of the report be received and filed, and the remainder be laid on the table. Mr. Pugh's report in full was as follows:

The Rev. W. N. Baily, rector Trinity church:

Sir: I beg to submit my annual report as treasurer of the new church building fund for the year ending with Easter, 1911.

The total receipts for the year were	$1,722.93
Balance in hand Easter 1910	286.95
Total	$2,009.88
Disbursements (to J. N. Moore, treas. of church)	950.00
Balance in hand	1,059.88
The total amount of cash received since the new church movement was begun under your rectorship is	$7,260.59
And the total disbursements to date (including $34.24 for printing) have been	$6,200.71
Leaving a balance in hand as above	$1,058.88

Of the total amount received I may mention that more than $3,000 was personally collected by yourself.

There are still two pledges outstanding, one of $400, and one of $200 for the roof, which it is hoped may be collected some time in the not too distant future. An amount equal to the interest on these pledges would be of greater benefit to the parish than the unpaid promises. Actual cash subscriptions, even tho small, would be more welcome than unjustifiable pledges.

The members of the Sunday school and the ladies of the parish have worked steadily, hard and unselfishly thru their classes and guilds to help forward the new church movement, making substantial additions to the fund, but with few exceptions, I regret to say, the men of the parish, including the great majority of the vestry, have contributed nothing in that direction. I recommend that a systematic effort be made to raise additonal money from the men of the parish to complete the church, and that the members of the vestry who have not yet subscribed any cash to the fund be requested to lead the way according to their means as an example to their brethren.

ALL TRACES OF ELOPING COUPLE LOST IN NEW YORK

MANASQUAN, April 19.—Lawrence A. Thomas and Miss Pearl Applegate, the eloping couple who were traced to Jersey City yesterday, eluded searchers in that city yesterday and no trace of them has been discovered. Lloyd C. Riddle, retained by Miss Applegate's father, Howard Applegate, said this morning that the couple had gone to New York and there the trail had been lost.

Mr. Riddle declares that Mr. Applegate's charge against Thomas is seduction and not abduction. No further word has been received from the couple.

PRAISE FOR BORO AT BOOSTER FEAST

The spirit of progress was manifested at a public meeting held last night at Bradley Beach under the auspices of the board of trade. The meeting, which was held in the LaReine casino, was attended by about 200 people. The speakers were all enthusiastic in their praise of the boro as a resort and declared for the continuance of the board of trade's efforts to advertise it. Several reels of moving pictures were given at the opening and close of the meeting and selections by the Point Pleasant brass band added entertaining variety to the evening.

Rev. J. B. Kulp, pastor of the Methodist church, was the principal speaker of the evening. He rehearsed the varied attractions of the resort and concluded by declaring that Bradley Beach is the "modern Garden of Eden." "At Bradley Beach," said Rev. Kulp, "we have Atlantic City and Lakewood combined, the ocean ozone mingling with the aroma of the pines." He advocated the publishing of a booklet presenting to advantage the many beauties of the boro and, by all means, the continuance of the advertising campaign with increased vigor.

Rev. Kulp struck a popular note when he declared that uniform sidewalks were necessary for the advancement of the boro. This statement was roundly applauded. There was also much applause when the speaker referred to Founder James A. Bradley as one of the most public spirited and self sacrificing citizens of the boro.

Mayor W. E. MacDonald replied to Rev. Kulp by stating that the uniform sidewalks were coming. He made a plea for the cooperation of the people of the boro with the officials for the advancement of the public interest. The mayor called forth laughter when he said that tho the boro was the lauging stock of the surrounding towns several years ago because of the manner in which its affairs were conducted, things had now gotten down to such a smoothly running basis that he had seriously considered inviting the mayor and council of Asbury Park to visit the boro council in session as an object lesson.

Other speakers of the evening were the Rev. Hutchinson, J. T. Kinney, and former Mayor A. T. Rogers. A. D. Harvey, chief of the fire department, presided and introduced the speakers.

Tonight the board of trade will conclude its program for the week with a social evening and dance to be held at the LaReine casino. Music will be furnished by Applegate's orchestra and refreshments will be served.

FALLEN GATE PINS GIRL TO GROUND

Crushed under a heavy sliding gate that jumped the track on the Whitfield avenue side of the Ocean Grove association's yard, Louise Fogerty, 13 years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Fogerty of 140 Heck Ave. narrowly escaped death yesterday. The heavy gate, which is about 12 foot square, struck the girl as she ran from it. She fell in a cramped position in a gully, the slight incline saving ner from further injury.

Louise had just returned from Lakewood, where she had received an Easter post card from F. E. Reynolds, of the association office, and whom she saw enter the association yard in Mr. Cole's automobile. She ran to the yard, with some companions, to thank Mr. Reynolds for the card and the girls suddenly conceived the idea of shutting Mr. Reynolds in the yard. They gave the gate a mighty shove and as it struck the post, it left its track. Her companions got out of its way but Louise was struck. Dr. William A. Robinson, who made a careful examination of the girl, found no bones broken. Louise is confined to bed today suffering from bruises and internal hurts. She is not seriously injured, however.

"I DESERVE TO DIE," DECLARES HEIDEMANN ON WAY TO TRENTON

FRANK E. HEIDEMANN
From a Picture Posed Especially For The Press In the Jail Yard at Freehold Monday.

"I Was Given a Fair Trial and Have No Fault to Find. I Was Treated Even Better Than I Should Have Been," Wails Young Murderer.

SPED TO STATE PRISON IN AN AUTOMOBILE

Utterly Collapses When Sentence Is Pronounced---Makes Gifts to Warden Cashion and Kruschkas, Herbert Receiving Signet Ring With Initials "G. L." For "Good Luck."

"I was given a fair trial and have no fault to find. I was treated even better than I should have been. I am sorry for what I did, but that can't help me now. The verdict was fair and the fate I am to meet is no more than I deserve. I have no feeling against anyone. The fault is entirely my own, and I must bear the consequences."

Sentenced late yesterday afternoon by Justice Willard P. Voorhees to be electrocuted during the week of May 22 for the murder of Marie Simth, the 10-year-old schoolgirl, in this city early last November, Frank E. Heidemann made the foregoing statement last night while on his way to the state prison, where he spent the night in the death house. Less than two hours after the jury had returned with a verdict of murder in the first degree after being out an hour and 55 minutes, Heidemann was removed from his cell in the Freehold jail, placed in an automobile driven by Charles Clayton and in the custody of Warden Edward Cashion and Constable William D. Hulse, was taken to Trenton. On the way Heidemann smoked a cigar and talked more cheerfully than usual. At the prison he was taken immediately to the death house and locked in one of the six cells set apart for murderers. Half an hour after he was admitted to the prison an Essex county negro was electrocuted. The auto bearing Heidemann and the officers left Freehold at 6.30 and arrived at Trenton at 7.45.

Collapses Completely.

Heidemann had confidently expected a verdict of murder in the second degree and when the jury returned with a verdict that sealed his doom he collapsed completely. Hopefully smiling as he walked up the aisle and sat down to hear the verdict, his eyes fairly bulged from their sockets as the words "Guilty of murder in the first degree" came from the lips of Foreman John Van Kirk. But it was only for a second. Then he dropped hs head into his hands and sobbed.

"Prisoner, stand up," ordered the justice. For a moment Heidemann was incapable of action. Laboriously and like one stunned from a blow, he drew himself to his feet, his hands resting on the table. His head was bent and tears streamed from his eyes.

Pronouncing Sentence.

Slowly the justice pronounced sentence. "You have been found guilty of murder in the first degree for murdering Marie Smith. The punishment provided by law for a conviction of that crime is that you shall suffer death. The sentence of the law is, therefore, and the judgment of the court is that you do suffer death at the time and in the place and in the manner prescribed by law. For your information I will say that a warrant will be issued directing that the sentence be carried into execution during the week commencing May 22, 1911."

Those in the courtroom began to move out, but Heidemann remained stationary. He started violently as Constable Hulse stepped to his side and placed his hand on his shoulder. Then he turned, and with face cast down he half walked, half staggered from the courtroom.

Kruschkas See Prisoner.

Back in his cell he sobbed bitterly. Within a short time he was visited by Max Kruschka his former employer; Mrs. Kruschka, Mrs. Delia Jackson and Mrs. Emma Davison. For a time he refused to see anyone but finally consented to talk with Mr. Kruschka and his son.

"I know I did wrong, and I'm sorry, but it's all over now," he said. "You were very kind to me. You treated me like a father," he continued, turning to Mr. Kruschka. To Herbert he said: "Always be truthful and do what your parents tell you. If I had only taken the advice of my parents when I was young this thing never would have happened." Mr. Kruschka told Heidemann he would get word to his two married sisters in Germany and promised to see that his body was given decent burial. Heidemann sobbed out his gratitude and upon his request to be left alone the visitors departed.

Prisoner Makes Gifts.

To Herbert Kruschka Heidemann gave his gold seal ring which bears the letters "G. L." Heidemann said the initials stood for "Good Luck." He gave Mr. Kruschka his florist's shears. His gold filled Ingersoll watch and solid gold chain he gave to Warden Cashion together with all his clothing and a combination tool and small saw, articles he had brought from Germany, and two pocket knives. When he reached Trenton Heidemann insisted that Mr. Cashion take back with him his black overcoat. He told Mr. Cashion that if he did not want

REBEKAHS ENJOY A MOCK WEDDING

With a large number of friends and relatives attending, and in the presence of the members of Atlantic Rebekah lodge, I. O. O. F., in Manning hall last night, Miss Eliza Bullock Watson became the bride of Sambo Johnson at 9.30.

The ceremony was performed in the lodge room at the close of the session, the officiating dominie being Spathford Dromgoodle, who stood in the centre of the lodge room. To the straws of the wedding march played by Miss Marguerite Handschuch, pianist, and Charles Rothfritz, violinist, Sambo, accompanied by Rastus Brown, his best man, entered the lodge room from the kitchen, while Eliza, the bride-to-be, accompanied by her father, Rufus Watson, and Dinah Mitchell as maid of honor, entered from the anteroom and met before the dominie in the center.

At the close of the ceremony, the bride and groom assisted by their attendants, served the refreshments to the guests and friends in attendance. A decanter of wine (cold tea) was first passed around, followed by cake and beer (pink lemonade), which created great amusement. The bride presented each guest with a lolly-pop as a lasting remembrance of the occasion.

The bride was dressed in white swiss adorned, with large figured flowers and carried a wedding bouquet (bunch of celery). The groom wore a high silk hat and a boutonniere head of lettuce), all the characters were in black face and wore costumes appropriate to their character.

This event is but one of many that has been and are to be feature of the meetings of Atlantic lodge, a different committee being appointed for each meeting.

The committee members in charge last night and who were the participants in the grotesque affair were: Spathford Dromgoodle, parson; Miss Elizabeth Schneider, Miss Eliza Bullock Watson, bride; Miss Leah Finkel, Sambo Johnson, groom; Miss Jennie R. Knox, Rufus Watson, father of Eliza; Miss Bertha Woehrer, Dinah Mitchell, maid of honor; Miss Mary K. P. Rothfritz, Rastus Brown, best man; Miss Emma Rothfritz.

At the next meeting of Atlantic lodge on May 2, the 23d anniversary will be celebrated, when a number of grand lodge and state assembly officers and visiting members from the other lodges in Monmouth and Ocean counties will be in attendance These anniversary occasions are always the means of bringing together such a large number of members of the order that the rooms are always crowded.

Owing to the grand encampment meeting at Phillipsburg on the same date this year, some of the visitors will not arrive here until the 10.55 train that evening.

EDITOR HARDEN MARRIES ACTRESS

Allenhurst Resident Recently Won Suit For Alieniation of Wife's Affections.

NEW YORK, April 19.—Percival L. Harden, editor of the Club Fellow, a summer resident of Allenhurst, who recently sued William T. Hoops, a broker, for $150,000 damages for alienating the affections of his wife, Maude Sullivan Harden, now Mrs. Hoops, and who was awarded $10,000 damages by a jury before Justice Pendleton, of the supreme court, is to marry again, according to dispatches from Chicago. Mabel Doris Mercer, a former member of the "Earl and Girl" company, obtained a license to marry Harden there yesterday.

Mabel Mercer, whose father is George Mercer, the custodian of public buildings, Allegheny county, Pa., four years ago, ran away from the midnight mission in Germantown, Pa., where she had been placed because of what was said at that time, to be parental opposition to attentions paid her by Carl Borntraeger, son of a former partner of Andrew Carnegie, and a ward of Henry C. Frick. She came to New York, where she obtained a position with the "Earl and Girl" company. She is 22 years old.

Harden's first wife was Maud Alene Sullivan, a cloak model, whom he married in Chicago, Nov. 1, 1900. On Jan. 21, 1908, she obtained a divorce from Harden, and the next day married William T. Hoops in Chicagocmfwyrg William T. Hoops, a broker of this city. Harden met Hoops in Chicago, and asked him to come to live with him in New York, which the latter did. In 1907, Mrs. Harden sued her husband to recover $12,000 salary as editor of one of his publications and again to recover 247 of the 250 shares of the stock of his company. In both cases, Mr. Harden, as defendant, was successful. Last year Harden instituted the proceedings against Hoops, which recently came up in the supreme court for $150,000 damages for alienating his wife's affections. On March 23 last, Harden was awarded $10,000 by Justice Pendleton.

CERTIORARI HALTS CONDEMNATION

FREEHOLD, April 19.—Judge Voorhees yesterday granted a writ of certiorari to review the proceedings of Monday when he appointed a commission to condemn land at Fifth and Monmouth streets, Spring Lake, as a site for a municipal water plant. Application for the writ was made by H. H. Wainwright, counsel for Charles H. Hinchman of Philadelphia, owner of some of the property which it is proposed to condemn.

BEAUTIFUL GIFTS FOR TRINITY P. E.

Two Stained Glass Windows, One a Genung Memorial. Patten and Chalice.

Announcement was made on Easter of the presentation of two beautiful windows, a patten and chalice, to Trinity Episcopal church. The windows were the gifts of Mrs. Margaret A. Green of Asbury avenue and A. V. C. Genung of Grand avenue. The Genung window is a memorial for the mother of the giver, who was a member of the Episcopal churcs. This window is on the Grand avenue side of the new church, and is said to represent an outlay of $750.

The patten came from Mrs. Squires, and the chalice, which matches the patten, is from Mrs. Elizabeth V. Shoemaker of Philadelphia. The gifts are highly appreciated by the rector, the Rev. W. N. Baily, and the officials and members of the church and parish

INDICATIONS OF GOOD FRUIT CROP

FARMINGDALE, April 19.—Present indications seem favorable for a good fruit crop, particularly peaches, apples and plums. It is too soon to determine whether the strawberries will yield a goood crop until the blossoming period is over. The cold weather has retarted the development of fruit buds and they are yet uninjured. Monday morning the temperature here was the lowest recorded so late in April. The thermometer registered 20 degrees and reports received from West Farms indicate a temperature of 16 degrees.

OVERDRINKING KILLS TWO.

MOUNT HOLLY, April 19.—County Detective Parker has completed an investigation of two mysterious deaths in the Burlington county pine belt, both occuring Sunday. In the morning George Kellock known at Mount Holly and Medford, was found dead in bed in Wesley Taylor's tenant house, near Tabernacle, and in the afternoon William Moore, of Bridgeton, was found dead in a bungalow near Atsion.

The coroner in the cases has assigned Bright's disease superinduced by the excessive use of liquor as the cause of death.

MINSTREL SHOW IS LARGELY ATTENDED

Benefit For Burbage Castle at the Casino Given by Red Bankers.

Red Bank Sons of Veterans, who presented their annual minstrel show at the Casino last night under the auspices of Burbage castle, K. G. E., scored an indifferent hit with an audience that filled the theater. The show was bright in spots and some of the jokes were good. The big chorus, under the direction of Lester Charles Reimer of this city, worked smoothly.

The stage settings were good, the opening number, "Every Little Movement," from "Madame Sherry," being particularly brilliant. The stage was darkened for the final chorus and the singers, more than 100 of them, waved tiny incandescent lamps. The stage setting was under the direction of Benjamin Ford of Red Bank.

Many local men took part in the show among them Monty Brice, who scored a hit with his topical song, "Send You Everything I've Got." The second part of the program introduced novel feature acts including a drill by a squad from Burbage castle. The complete program was as follows:

1. Overture ....."Madame Sherry"
Orchestra
2. Opening Medley Chorus .. . . . .
Entire Company "Sons of Veterans"
A. "Can't You See I Love You."
B. "Kiss Me, My Honey."
C. "We've Kept the Golden Rule."
D. "Sweet Italian Love."
E. "Put Your Arms Around Me, Honey."
F. "Every Little Movement."
3. Introducing "Sons of Veterans" Jokesmiths.
4. "All I Ask of You Is Love" .....
Leroy Chamberlain.
5. "I'm a Member of the Midnight Crew," Harry Degenring.
6. Entrance of Premier End Men.
7. "I'll Change the Thorns to Roses" Gene Magee.
8. "Lend You Everything I've Got" Monty Brice.
9. "Loving" .....Stewart McKellar
10. "If He Comes In, I'm Going Out" Abe Benjamin.
11. "Vale of Dreams" .....
Edward Farrell.
12. "On Solid Ground," .....
Lester Hance.
13. "Think It Over Mary".....
Fred Jones.
14. "Honey, I Will Long For You"
Harry Stewart.
15. "Happy Days in Life".....
Circle Quartet.
16. "Hip, Hip Hurrah".....

CONTEST IN AVON FIRE DEPARTMENT

The coming annual election of the board of chiefs of the Avon fire department is to see an interesting contest. Each of the two companies of the boro has put forward a candidate for the first position and it is declared each will back its man to its full voting power. Frank A. Sofield is the candidate of the Active Fire company and the Avon Hose company is backing G. W. Henderson jr. Bert Layton a member of the hose company, has been nominated from both companies for the position of assistant chief.

The engine company outnumbers the hose company in membership and the election of Mr. Sofield is a foregone conclusion if each company votes solidly for its candidate. However, there is likely to be some strenuous electioneering before the election, which will be held May 3. H. M. Dolan of the Active Fire company is the present chief.

A CONTRAST.

Editor Press:—While at luncheon in Philadelphia I overheard a conversation between two friends who had spent Easter Sunday at the two rival resorts—Atlantic City and Asbury Park. In substance it was as follows:

"How was Atlantic, Rodge?" "Gee wiz, but it was cold; ruined even the artificial flowers on the girls' hats. Blue birds were flying around with icicles on their bills; finest fur garments in parade I have ever seen. How was it at Asbury Park?" "Balmy zephers, rather strenuous, but flowers bloomed, blue birds almost sang themselves to death; largest sale of camphor balls and other moth killers ever known—bathing roomy." How do you account for such difference in conditions between the two places? Action of the Gulf stream and Boosters association.

TOURING CAR UPSETS

RED BANK, April 19.—A touring car, owned by W. S. Fanshaw of Shrewsbury, was overturned Monday night, when the chauffeur reached for his hat, which had blown off while he was driving at a high rate of speed. The car ran up an embankment, throwing the nurse and child of Mr. Fanshaw thru the glass front. They narrowly escaped death, but are only cut and bruised. The car was on its way to this place. "I DESERVE TO DIE" the clothes to distribute them among the prisoners. Some days ago Heidemann gave Constable Hulse a silver drinking cup which he procured on the vessel that brought him to this country from Germany in 1909.

Contrary to report Heidemann has had religious counsel. Right Rev. Mons. Frederick Kivelitz, rector of St. Lima Catholic church of Freehold, visited him on three separate occasions and administered the rites of the Catholic church.

Justice Voorhees concluded his charge to the jury at 2.50. Three minutes later he recalled the jurymen to give them further instructions. Heidemann, who was being taken back to his cell to await the verdict, also was brought back into the courtroom. He believed that the jury had already reached a verdict and knowing that a quick verdict would mean murder in the first degree he sank into his chair and collapsed, dropping his head on his arms, outstretched on the table. He brightened wonderfully when informed that the jury had not yet reached a verdict.

How the Jury Stood.

After the jury had been out an hour and a half it was generally predicted about the courtroom that the verdict would be murder in the second degree. It was reported that Foreman John VanKirk and Isaac P. Davison, juror No. 7, were holding out for this verdict, and this proved to be correct. Three ballots were taken. On the first Van Kirk and Davison stood out for murder in the second degree. Foreman VanKirk voted for a first degree verdict on the second ballot, Davison declaring that he was opposed to capital punishment. A long discussion preceded the third ballot, when the 12 votes were cast for a verdict of murder in the first degree.

It was generally remarked before the verdict was brought in that Prosecutor Applegate had made a mistake when he neglected to question the jurymen as to their views on capital punishment. Before being accepted each of the jurymen had declared that they had read about and discussed the case and believed Heidemann guilty.

Women Decline to Leave Court.

The crowd that on Monday jammed the courtroom was greatly diminished yesterday, altho all the seats were filled and some stood in the aisles. In the audience were some two score women. Justice Voorhees announced that testimony of a revolting nature probably would be given and gave those women who so desired an opportunity to retire. None left the courtroom, several women even standing on chairs to get a glimpse of the prisoner as the shocking details of the confessions were divulged by the witnesses.

Heidemann's confession, taken in the jail on March 30, and which was the last evidence submitted to the jury, was as follows:

The Confession.

"I, Frank Heidemann, do hereby voluntarily make the following statement:

"On Nov. 9, 1910, I was employed by Max Kruschka, florist, as helper, and was residing at the residence of Max Kruschka, situated on the northwest corner of Asbury avenue and Whitesville road, Asbury Park.

"At about 10.45 a. m. on Nov 9, 1910, I was at work potting some plants and had stopped near the entrance to the greenhouse, to fix a box, when I noticed Marie Smith pass down the Whitesville road going toward her home. Placing the hammer I had been using in fixing the box in my pocket I stepped over the hot beds until I reached a point on the driveway, near Asbury avenue, and near the front of the residence. By this time Marie Smith had reached a point on the Whitesville road near the first telegraph pole south of Asbury avenue.

Lured by Flowers.

"A barking dog had attracted her attention and as she turned around and looked back, I beckoned to her and she retraced her steps until she reached a point on Asbury avenue, west of the Whitesville road several feet. Here I talked to her thru the hedge which surrounds the Kruschka property. I asked her if she wanted to take some flowers home to her father. She replied that she did, and as she turned to enter by the driveway, I told her to go down (north) on Whitesvilel road and that I would meet her in the back yard. I walked thru the yard and met her in the road north of the Kruschka property. I told her I had lost my knife while cutting flowers in the woods and asked her if she would help me look for it.

"Just before meeting Marie Smith I had noticed Mrs. Davidson pass the Kruschka residence, and as she was still in sight walking west on Asbury avenue, several hundred feet west of Whitesville road, I had asked Marie to meet me around the corner. I took the left hand of Marie Smith in my right hand and she willingly came along with me. We walked north on Whitesville road to Ridge avenue; at a point just west of Whitesville road.

Slain In Woods.

"We walked thru the brush a distance, crossing a drift road which runs from Ridge avenue to Whitesvile road, selecting a spot on a pathway, a safe distance from the drift road. * * * As Marie was sobbing, I placed her handkerchief in her mouth. She finally forced the handkerchief out of the mouth, so I placed her stocking cap over her mouth, and tied her hair ribbon tightly around her neck. * * * As Marie was still struggling, I grabbed her by the neck and choked her. I then kicked her in the head. I believe it was the left side, and after turning the body over (face downward) with the aid of my foot, I reached into my hip pocket, took out the hammer, and hit her twice on the head, crushing her skull.

"When I left the body the head was towards the drift road and the face towards Deal lake. I walked to the drift road (carrying the hammer in my hand, the handle hanging down between my fingers), turned to the right until I reached Ridge avenue, crossed over, and entered the Kruschka property from the rear. After washing the hammer and my hands in the wooden half barrel which stands in the yard, and in which the goldfish are kept, I walked between the pile of hay and the barn and entered the greenhouse, where I placed the hammer back in the rack. I do not figure that I was absent from the Kruschka premises more than 20 minutes. After returning I went about my work as usual, and at lunch time I ate with the housekeeper and Mrs. Jackson. There was no one else present, as Mr. Kruschka and his son were in New York, and Mrs. Kruschka was in Asbury Park at Mr. Kruschka's store.

Details of Dress.

"I noticed that Marie Smith was dressed in a greenish colored dress, wore a brown overcoat and black stockings. She wore dark garters around her legs above the knees. She was slender and not well developed. I do not remember seeing any gloves belonging to her. The scratches reported to have been on her hands and face must have been caused while she lay struggling on the ground, as there were vines and thorns near where she lay.

"I did not aid in the search for the body of Marie Smith at any time nor did I see it the day it was found, Sunday, Nov. 13, 1910. From what I heard from Chief Smith and others who visited the spot where the body was found it had not been moved from the day I killed her, Nov. 9, until Sunday, Nov. 13, 1910. At the time I killed Marie Smith on Nov. 9, 1910, I was wearing a dark sweater, a light shirt underneath without collar, corduroy trousers, a small cap, heavy working shoes, all of which I still have in my possession with the exception of the cap, which I burned.

"FRANK HEIDEMANN."

His Photograph Taken.

Before the morning session of court began yesterday Heidemann was shown a copy of the photograph taken of him by a Press photographer the day previous.

"Are you going to publish that?" he asked. He was informed that the picture was to be published.

"But it's not good of me; I frowned too much," he said.

"Why didn't you smile a bit?" asked the reporter.

"How could I smile; I didn't feel like smiling; I never want to smile again," was his reply.

Heidemann is a rather good-looking young German. He has a pleasing face and before suspicion was directed against him as the murderer of Marie Smith he was well liked by all who were acquainted with him. He has many likable qualities and his mild disposition won him many friends during his brief stay here. He is 27 years old, about five feet five in height and weighs about 135 pounds. In court he appeared in a blue suit of cheap material, and blue tie. He has black hair and rather pointed features.

FISHERMEN ESCAPE

Easily Elude South Jersey Constables and Run Away.

WOODBURY, April 19.—Game Warden John Avis caught five men late Sunday afternoon fishing near National Park with a shad net. He sent for two constables at Washington Park, and the quintet of fishermen, with a camp outfit of frying pans and dishes, were brought to Woodbury.

While Magistrate Mankin was preparing to give a hearing to the men two of them asked permission to step outside for a moment. Constable Pierce accompanied them, but in an unguarded moment the pair suddenly disappeared and have not been seen since. They dropped out of sight so quickly that the officer did not see in what direction they went. Believing these two were the principals in the illegal fishing, the warden could not hold the other three, and they were dismissed. After they had gone it dawned on the officers that the names of none of the five had been taken, nor their addresses, but a valise full of clothing was left behind in possession of the authorities.

STANDARDS VICTORIOUS

The Standards defeated the Mohawks in a lively baseball game played yesterday, the score being 12 to 11. E. Stokes pitched the first eight innings for the Standards, keeping the Mohawks down to four runs while his team gathered in a round dozen. Substiteu Wallace was put in the box in the last inning and the Mohawks pounded him out for seven runs. The lineups were:

Standards—R. Brace, c.; E. Stokes, p.; H. Cowdrick, 1 b.; R. Wallace, 2 b. and p.; W. O'Brien, 3 b.; J. Brace, s. s.; F. Zeigler, l. f.; S. Crammer, c. f.; C. Slater, r. f.

ATTEMPTED SUICIDE WEDS.

NEWARK, April 19.—Sadie Schwartz of No. 35 Boyd street, who, the police reported, attempted suicide recently because her sweetheart was said to have refused to marry her, was married to him Monday in the city hall. A justice of the peace performed the ceremony that made her Mrs. Abraham Schlesenberg.

The alleged attempt at suicide was on last April 8. The girl drank what she thought was carbolic acid, it is believed, but the druggist from whom she bought the liquid, suspecting her purpose, gave her flavored water. After drinking the water in her home the girl caused much excitement, apparently believing she had taken poison. When she learned the mixture was harmless she said it was not her fault that the druggist deceived her. The couple will live in 56 Boyd street.

EASTER EXERCISES OF UNUSUAL MERIT

Program of First M. E. Sunday-School Received With Much Approbation.

That portion of the program in which the children of the primary department took part at the Easter services of the First M. E. Sunday-school on Sunday evening was heard with much interest. Miss Clara V. George and Mrs. H. S. Jackson, in charge of the primary department, drilled the children and directed their performance. A large portion of the primary class gave a rectation in concert, "Jesus Is Risen," and followed with a song, "Raindrops." George Howland gave a recitation, "Welcome Springtime." Little Richard Martin gained much favor by his nicely given recitation. Four little girls—Ardith Potts, Dorothy Hope, Evelyn Kane and Grace Purchase—recited cleverly. The primary class sang a chorus, "On Easter Morn." Little Miss Alice Potts recited "'Tis Easter Day," and Bird Metz followed also with a recitation. Seven bright boys—Van Vechten Burger, Vernon Jackson, Holmes Bannard, Theodore Couse, Earl Gardener, Eldridge Black and Howard Knott, gave short recitations, and they were followed by five girls in recitations—Adele Davis, Ruth Purchase, Claire Bateman, Marguerite Wallace and Grace Opdyke. The primary exercises came to a close with a song by the entire class, "The Robin's Song," in the chorus of which the children whistled. Miss Minnie Blewitt was at the piano for the primary children's exercises.

The program by the other members of the school was given in The Press on Saturday and was carried out in detail. Miss Margaret Robley was at the piano for the song, "Flowers of Easter," by five girls; an exercise, "Jesus Lives," by 12 girls, in which the participants carried wreaths of roses and baskets of flowers and used them in motion as the leader recited; song, "Sing On, O Trusting Heart," by four young ladies; recitation and refrain, "The Thrush," by seven young ladies; and a solo, "Like the Fragrance of the Lillies," by Miss Ruth Stockdale with chorus by three other young ladies.

Dr. Stockdale, pastor, in a short address, said that Easter day means that Jesus brought light and immortality to life.

The orchestra of 15 pieces under the direction of Arthur Parker was given much praise for its excellent work in the opening, closing and offertory numbers. For the opening the Adagio from Mendelssohn's "Hymn of Praise" was played. Arthur Pryor's popular "After Sunset" was played for the offertory, and at the close Marche aux Flambeaux, by Clark, was played. The orchestra was supported by the school in the carols. Miss Vera Thompson was at the piano for both the singing and the instrumental selections.

SURPRISE SHOWER FOR MISS FINLEY

Members of the Needle club, a society of young women of Avon and Bradley Beach, Completely surprised Miss Lillian Finley at her home on Evergreen avenue, Bradley Beach, last night with a linen shower given her in honor of her engagement to wed Samuel Hampon, son of Station Agent and Mrs. G. H. Hampton of this city. No fomal announcement of the young couple's engagement had been made but Miss Finley's friends had spied the telltale diamond on her finger and promptly arranged for the surprise. The date for the wedding has not yet been set.

Miss Finley and Mr. Hampton were preparing to go out for the evening when the surprisers called. They immediately changed their plans and gave themselves up to the entertainment of their impromptu guests. In behalf of the club as a whole, Miss Blanche White presented Miss Finley with a beautiful table cover with a dozen napkins to match, all embroidered with initial letter by members of the club.

Toasts were offered to the prospective bride and groom by each member of the club in turn, Miss Marian Thompson acting as toastmaster. Mr. Hampton replied with a toast to the club.

A number of games were played and prizes were won by Miss Belle Harrison and Mr. Hampton. The surprisers had not overlooked refreshments, having brought them along for the successful conclusion of an enjoyable evening.

Those present were: Misses Maria Okerson, Madge Gouldy, Belle Harrison, Irene Harrison, Bessie White, Laura Grieshaber, Marian Thomson, Maude White, Blanche White, Violet Leigh, Lorana and Margaret Finley, Mrs. George Dodd, Miss Lillian Finley, Mr. Hampton and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Finley.

BORDEN COMPANY FIGHTSXohbs-

JERSEY CITY, April 19.—Final argument has been heard by Supreme Court Justice Francis J. Swayze, James Bergen and James F. Minturn, on the writ of certiorari obtained in May, 1908, by the Borden Milk company to review an ordinance passed by the Montclair common council regulating the sale of milk in that municipality.

The evidence on which final argument was made was taken before a commission and covers several thousand pages. Among the interesting exhibits were about 50 specimens of tuberculosis cultures of bacilli, showing the different forms of the disease.

The case rests on the right of the Montclair authorities to compel venders of milk to subject their cows to a test and preventing them from selling milk unless the test is complied with. It appears that all the milk dealers complied with the test ordinance adopted by the council except the Borden company, which failed to comply and took a writ of certiorari to review the ordinance. The company, thru its counsel, former Justice Gilbert Collins and Charles Thompson, contended that the percentage of tuberculosis cases arising from milk is so small that the ordinance is unnecessary. Commissioner Edward B. Goodale and Mr. Colie of Newark, represent the Montclair council. Decision was reserved.

SALESMAN FOUND DEAD IN HIS BED IN HOTEL ROOM

RED BANK, APRIL 20.—Edwin P. Hannum, who made his home at 130 North 16th street, Philadelphia, was found dead in bed in a room in Fred Luther's Union hotel in Warf avenue, yesterday.

Mr. Hannum was a traveling salesman employed by the International Harvesters company. He had been in Monmouth county for his firm for the past 14 years, and it had always been his custom to stop off at Charles H. Hurley's office, in Sycamore avenue, Shrewbury. Accompanied by Mr. Hurley, he would then make a trip through the small towns in the county, selling farming implements.

As was his custom, Mr. Hannum arrived at Mr. Hurley's shop about 11.30 o'clock Monday morning. He was then in apparently good health. Monday afternoon the two men made arrangements for their usual trip thru this part of the county.

Both M. Hurley and Mr. Hannum were out all day Tuesday and made visits to the farmers in the vicinity of Wayside, Hamilton, Green Grove and Asbury Park. During the trip, Mr. Hannum remarked to Mr. Hurley that he felt better than for some time.

Mr. Hannum was about 66 years old, and is survived by a widow, a daughter and three sons.

DR. V. B. HEIGHT IS TAKEN TO TRENTON

To Undergo Treatment at State Hospital—Obsessed With Idea He Is Detective.

Dr. Vernon B. Height, a well known veterinarian, was removed to the state hospital for the insane at Trenton late yesterday afternoon. His condition resulted from a period of heavy drinking and yesterday he became so violent that his removal to the hospital was authorized. Policeman Charles Lippincott and Clarence Mooney accompanied him. Dr. H. S. Kinmonth was the attending physician.

Dr. Height's mind has been unbalanced for several days. A few nights ago he was obsessed with the idea that he was deputized to capture horse thieves. He made a dozen trips or more to headquarters during the night to inform the officer, each time, that he was closer to the trail. He had engaged a hack and ordered the driver to drive about town at full speed.

ELOPERS MAY BE AT ATLANTIC CITY

Pythian Lodge to Hear Charges Against Thomas Preferred by Girl's Father.

MANASQUAN, April 20.—Lawrence A. Thomas and Miss Pearl Applegate, who dissappeared from their homes here Monday morning, are believed to be in Atlantic City and the police there are searching the city for them. It was learned yesterday that a couple answering the description of Thomas and the young girl bought tickets to Atlantic City at Jersey City Monday. From the station they were traced to a Jersey City hotel, where they had dinner. At the hotel the trail was lost.

The Jersey City agent says he sold the tickets about 11 o'clock. He remembered the couple because, he says, they acted strangely and seemed afraid someone was looking for them. If Thomas bought tickets at 11 o'clock Monday morning it must have been soon after arriving in Jersey City.

Howard Applegate, father of the missing girl, has preferred charges against Thomas in Pearl lodge, Knights of Pythias, of which lodge both are members. The charges were preferred in the lodge before Thomas left town. The case will be tried by the lodge at its meeting on Tuesday night of next week.

It is believed by some that the coming trial by the lodge prompted Thomas to leave town.

FALL FROM TRICYCLE BREAKS CHILD'S LEG

Falling from her tricycle while riding in front of her parents' home 125½ Abbott avenue, Ocean Grove, late yesterday afternoon, the 3-year-old daughter of Mr and Mrs. Frederick Sculthorpe tumbled to the sidewalk and broke her leg. The limb was broken between the knee and ankle. Dr. W. A. Robinson was called and set the bone and the little girl is now doing nicely. The accident happened about 4 o'clock.

GERAN ELECTION BILL SIGNED BY GOV. WILSON

New Jersey Senate Passes Radical Corrupt Practices Measure Prohibiting Expenditures—Gebhardt Loses Fight Against Manasquan Canal Measure.

TRENTON, April 20.—Governor Wilson signed the Geran election reform bill, the most radical election measure ever passed in this state, and thereby completed the accomplishment of his second great victory in behalf of good government and the fulfillment of another of the pledges he made in the last campaign. The senate at the same time passed the most radical corrupt practices act ever introduced in corrupt legislature, and this, together with an agreement between the house and senate on a radical public utilities act, seems to insure final adjournment at the close of the present week. Both houses worked until late yesterday afternoon, when they adjourned until this morning.

The corrupt practices act is a combination of the bills introduced by Senator Prince and Assemblyman Simpson. It follows the lines reached at Tuesday night's conference and prohibits absolutely the expenditure of money by candidates, or agent's or treasurers in securing elections. During the debate, Mr. Leavitt suggested an amendment allowing the hiring of wagons or autos to transport voters to the polls. He finally secured the adoption of an amendment for the transportation at public expenses of aged and infirm voters.

The house bill for the retirement of aged military officers by court martial was the subject of a lively debate. Mr. Frelinghuysen sought to strike out the amendment which made it permissible, but not compulsory, for the government to order a court martial. This was adopted, and the bill was passed by a vote of 13 to 25. The measure provides for the retirement of all National Guards officers at the age of 64 years.

Senator Gebbardt made a losing fight against the assembly bill which authorizes the construction of a waterway connection in Barnegat Bay with Manasquan inlet at a cost to the state of $150,000. A message was received from the governor asking for the consent of the senate to confer the following titles; Brigadier general on Nelson Y. Dungan brigadier general on Colonel Edmund L. B. Godfrey, major on Captain James L. March, and major on Captain Charles H. Van Schiver. The measures was referred to the Committee on Judiciary.

Senator Levitt made another effort to get thru his commission government bill which has already passed the house. He secured the adoption of an amendment requiring 26 per cent. instead of 40 per cent of the total vote of the last preceding election to adopt the commission government idea. Senators Fielder and Hand opposed it. There will be another opposition to the bill when it comes up today for final consideration.

Senator Leavitt introduced a bill permitting further extension of the house grounds, and Senator Edge introduced a measure strengthening the provision of the employes' liability bill to its application to employes hired before the enactment of the bill. The assembly bill increasing the terms of constables to five years was beaten by a vote of 7 to 2.

Among bills passed in the senate were

House bill, increasing from $35 to $50, for the expense of the burial of war veterans by counties; house bill incorporating the boro of Fairhaven, Monmouth county; Senate bill, giving clerks of fourth-class counties $3000 a year in lieu of fees; House bill enabling Passaic City to continue its percent excise board; senate bill fixing $300 a year for compensation for freeholders in counties between 70,000 and 100,000 population; bill regulating the manufacture, storage and transportation of explosives; house bill providing an asylum in Trenton for the criminal insane; house bill requiring pawnbrokers to report their transactions to the police daily.

Senator Bradley resigned as a member of the public utility committee, and Leader Prince was named as his successor.

Senators Gaunt, Brown and Johnson were appointed to confer with the house committee on cold storage legislation.

SAVE FOUR FROM DEATH ON GALE SWEPT CRAFTS

Sandy Hook Lifeboat Breaks Down After Rescuing Man From Barge and Pilot Boat Saves Crew and Three Men From Stranded Sloop.

SANDY HOOK April 20.—Captain Lippincott and a crew from the Sandy Hook Life Saving station this morning rescued one man from a scow which had broken from its tow and three men from a sloop. The pilot boat of the station which went to Captain Lippincott's aid when he signaled that the engine of his lifeboat had broken down, is now bound for the station here. It is believed that some of the men rescued from the sloop are injured.

The sloop is equipped with an engine which broke down and in the high surf the boat was helpless. She came ashore at the 5,000 yard target. Her name cannot be made out from here. Captain Lippincott is not expected to make the station until after 4 o'clock.

The rescue was one of the most thrilling in the history of the local station. Captain Lippincott's lifeboat had scarcely been launched before she shipped a sea that all but swamped her. The sturdy lifesavers, however, realizing full well the plight of the helpless men on the sloop and scow, bailed for dear life and anxiously listened to the sputter of the boat's little engine in the hope that the pounding seas would not disable it.

The scow was aground just off the boathouse at No. 2 station at Seabright. The exhausted man on board was with difficulty pulled aboard and the lifeboat was headed for the stranded sloop. The engine gave a couple of gasping phuts and stopped. Captain Lippincott immediately sent his signal for the pilot boat and waited patiently for it to take him and his men aboard.

ORGANIZATION OF HEALTH OFFICERS

Health officers representing a score of cities and towns about the state, met at Newark Monday night and took preliminary steps toward the organization of the Health Officers' association of New Jersey. It is formed to increase the efficiency of health departments represented, by an interchange of views and experiences, and to promote co-operation among the several municipalities.

The association elected the following officers: President, C. H. Wells, Montclair; vice-president, John O'Brien, jr., Plainfield; secretary and treasurer, J. Scott McNutt, Orange. Other places represented were East Orange, South Orange Township, Rahway, Atlantic City, Irvington, Roselle Park, Millburn, Jersey City, Passaic, Trenton, Asbury Park, Dover and West Hoboken.

Communications were received from health officers of other towns, indicating that the association will be materially increased in membership in a short time. Following the appointment of a committee on constitution and bylaws, the association adjourned until May 17.

DR. KEATOR'S AUTO CRASHES INTO BIG DISPLAY WINDOW

Considerable Damage Done As Car Bumps LeMaistre Store This Morning.

When Dr. Bruce S. Keator purchased his little Ford runabout he neglected to inquire into the car's personal characteristics and hence he was unaware that deep within the heart of the machinery there was a vast amount of vanity and a desire for self adornment. This fact however, was forcibly impressed upon the doctor's mind this morning when the auto's hidden characteristic came to the surface.

Dr. and Mrs. Keator were bowling down Cookman avenue at a good pace about 9 o'clock this morning, well tucked in and protected from the storm by a heavy leather curtain when Mrs. Keator spied thru the glass in the curtain the window exhibit of the LaMaistre lace and embroidery store.

"What beautiful lace," she thought.

Mental telepathy is a potent force and this idea, being transmitted to the auto, obsessed the machine and awoke its latent desire in all its strength. The auto veered toward the window, got a better look and then became unmanageable. The steering gear refused to obey the doctor's hands, the car bounced up the eight-inch curb and crashed into the lace bedecked window. Having attained its purpose and reached the beautiful lace it came to a sudden stop, but the damage had been done.

The heavy plate glass window was broken to pieces and the rain poured in upon the handsome window dressing. Valuable pieces of lace and embroideries, kid gloves and lingerie were cut by the falling glass and damaged by rain. Dr. and Mrs. Keator got out from the machine and it was backed into the street. One of the front wheels was dished, the axle slightly bent, a lamp bent and the radiator dented a little.

The damage to the window will amount to more than $200. The glass itself, was worth from $100 to $125 and the exhibit was valued at $200. All of the exhibit was not damaged, however. The woodwork along the window sill was broken by the impact of the auto.

Despite the rain a crowd gathered and in the excitement "Pop" French's umbrella turned inside out. "Oh ——!" exclaimed "Pop" disgustedly and jammed the offending article in an ash barrel.

HOW TO SELECT A PLUMP TINSMITH

Being a Story of Doc. Bennett, Charles Rugarber and Christmas Turkeys.

Councilman Charlie Rugarber was at the deck in his shop on Summerfield avenue deeply engrossed in a long column of figures purporting to have relation to the maintenance of the water department.

"Dry stuff," mused Charlie.

In popped Dr. R. S. Bennett and transfixed the reader with piercing eyes. Charlie got up and started to say something but the doctor gave him a thump on the chest. The councilman staggered.

"Hold on there, Doc!"

"Stand still," commanded the Doc. "Stick out your tongue." There was something compelling in his tone. The councilman stopped his jaw but his tongue was sticking to the roof of his mouth. The doctor reached out and pinched his cheek to see the color rise to the pressure. Then he backed away and surveyed the tin shop proprietor from head to foot. He said "Humph."

"Wh-wh-wh-what's the matter, Doc? Am I sick?"

"Why no, I don't think so. You seem to be all right. I think you'll do. In fact, I think you're just the man I want."

The councilman began to feel better right away. His tongue loosened up like something oiled.

"Well, what's all the fancy work for? What do you want?"

"Want a sheetmetal worker and you look so much like a Christmas dinner turkey that I think you'll fill the bill!"

"Say, Doc, what's the matter with you all at once? Aint you feeling right?"

"Sure, I'm fine and dandy."

"Put me next to this Christmas turkey play."

"I'm only taking your advice," explained the Doc., and he read the sheet metal man's advertisement from the Press:

"When you selected a turkey for your Christmas dinner, you looked him all over carefully, felt of him, thumped him, sized up the color and the dressing and bought the best in the market. Do you do this when you select a sheet metal worker? Select a mechanic as carefully as you do your Xmas dinners. Charles Rugarber, 809 Summerfield Ave., Asbury Park."

"You're getting to be an awful joker, Charlie," said the doctor as he chugged away in his automobile.

JUDGE WILLIAM T. HOFFMAN IS A VICTIM OF APOPLEXY

STRAIN OF THE HEIDEMANN TRIAL PARTLY RESPONSIBLE

Judge William T. Hoffman, who conducted the case for the defense in the murder trial of Frank E. Heidemann, the slayer of Marie Smith, dropped dead last night at 10.30 o'clock at his home in Englishtown. Death was caused by apoplexy. Judge Hoffman was 75 years old. No funeral arrangements have been made.

Excitement of the Heidemann trial, which was concluded at Freehold Tuesday, when Heidemann was sentenced to death in the electric chair, is believed to have brought on the fatal stroke. Yesterday morning Judge Hoffman was in Freehold attending to matters pertaining to the Monmouth county tax board, of which he had been president since its organization several years ago. He made no complaint to anyone of feeling unwell, and joked with the clerks in the sheriff's office in his usual affable manner. He left Freehold shortly after noon for his home in Englishtown.

Falls Dead in Bed.

Ascending to his bedroom about 10.30 o'clock after playing a game of cards with Mrs. Hoffman and a friend, the judge had partially disrobed when he was stricken. The falling of his body attracted those downstairs. He was dead when they reached his sid Coroner Robert M. Purdy was summoned this morning. He deemed no autopsy necessary.

Colleagues in the legal profession were shocked this morning to learn of his death. During the Heidemann trial he had appeared in the best of health, and to inquiring friends he said he felt splendidly. The only sign of declining health was shown by his apparent amination of witnesses. One of the amination of witnesses. One of the few witnesses the judge took occasion to cross-examine was Coroner Purdy, who today was called to view his dead body.

In his prime Judge Hoffman was one of the best and most widely known lawyers in New Jersey. He gained his greatest prominence, perhaps, as the defender of McAllister, Ker and Death in the famous Jennie Bosscheiter murder case at Paterson a number of years ago.

Funeral Services.

Funeral services will be conducted at the late residence Monday afternoon at 1.30 o'clock. Rev. D. H. Schock, pastor of the Englishtown Methodist church, which Judge Hoffman attended, will be in charge. Interment will be made in the old Tennent cemetery.

At the courthouse in Freehold this morning the news of Judge Hoffman's death was received with deep regret. Judge John E. Foster, in announcing his death, stated that because of the prominence of the deceased he thought some action should be taken by the Monmouth Bar association. On motion of Counselor Aaron E. Johnston of this city, Judge Foster then appointed Joseph Reilly of Red Bank, Benjamin P. Morris of Long Branch and Counselor Johnston to a committee to draw up suitable resolutions to be presented at the opening day of the May term of court.

Biographical Sketch.

Judge William T. Hoffman was the only child of William and Lydia A. Hoffman. He was born Nov. 8, 1836, near Jamesburg, N. J. In early youth he acquired an excellent English education, and was preparing for college when his attention was directed to business pursuits. He subsequently took up the study of law under the preceptorship of Governor Bedle and in November, 1862, he was licensed as an attorney, and he became a counselor in 1872. His admission to the bar was during the crucial period of the Civil war, and in 1863 he entered the military service in the paymaster's department until the restoration of peace. After the war he resumed the practise of his profession in Hudson county.

Some Well Known Trials.

Judge Hoffman was always at his best as a jury lawyer—clear in presentation of his case, searching in the examination of witnesses and logical and convincing in his analysis of the fact presented. Among the many known causes celebre in which he has been a counsel were the homicide trials of Smith and Bennett of Jersey City; Rockwell of Toms River; Klanowski of Jersey City; Eli Shaw of Camden, and the more recent and notorious Bosscheiter case in Paterson, in which he succeeded in securing a verdict that sent the three alleged murderers to prison when it was generally expected that all three would be sentenced to death.

Among cases of great importance in which he was engaged were the celebrated railroad taxation cases, in which he was counsel for the state; the noted Laverty impeachment trial before the state senate in 1886, in which he was counsel for the defense; and the Stuhr-McDonald contested election case before the senate in 1890. He also appeared in the famous Lewis will case and in the Brockaway counterfeiting trial in the federal court.

Judge of Hudson County.

Various important positions have been creditably filled by Judge Hoffman From 1873 to 1878 he served as presiding judge of Hudson county, and for five years he was president of the Ho-

AWARDED $2,200 TO MOVE HOUSE

Main Street, Manasquan, Will Be Widened to Nearly Forty Feet.

MANASQUAN, April 20.—Proprietor Harry F. Shier was awarded $2,200 damages for moving his hotel property east to widen Main street 38½ feet, it became known at the meeting of the boro council Tuesday night. The award was made in executive session a week ago. It is understood that Mr. Shier further allows the boro 10 feet for sidewalk purposes. In consideration of the damages awarded him, Mr. Shier waives all further claims and will proceed to move his property at once.

At Tuesday's meeting the mayor and boro clerk were authorized to enter into an agreement with the property owners on the north side of Main street from the Squan house property to Parker avenue and Taylor avenue whereby they will convey to the boro 5½ feet for the purpose of widening the street 38½ feet and an additional 10 feet for sidewalk purposes. The boro will lay a sidewalk, five feet wide and a curb. The boro further agrees to move the buildings occupied by a Mr. Diamond to a new location at the direction of the owner, and place them in good condition.

Council passed the fire escape ordinance at this meeting. It requires all hotels anad public buildings to be equipped with escapes of an approved type.

The fire committee reported that it had investigated the condition of the fire apparatus and hose. The report showed that the department has 1,050 feet of good hose and some 450 feet not in good condition. Bids will be asked for supplying 400 feet of new hose which will be divided between the two companies.

FREEHOLD MAN IN BAD

Thomas Martin of Freehold, went to Trenton Tuesday with $100 in his pocket, and with the intention of laying in some supplies he needed on the farm. He stopped in a saloon on South Broad street and shortly before midnight he was found by Patrolman Schnorbus lying on Union street. He was taken to second district police station and last night released by Judge Rees in second district court.

HEIDEMANN IS SAID TO HAVE WIFE IN GERMANY

Cablegram Said to Have Been Received by County Authorities Declaring He Was Also Sent to Jail In Dusseldorf For Forgery—Executions In County.

Criminal operations of Frank E. Heidemann, the young German florist who is now in the death house at Trenton awaiting execution for the murder of Marie Smith in this city last November, were not confined to this country alone, if the reported cablegram received by the Monmouth counties authorities from the police of Dusseldorf, Germany, is authentic. This telegram states that Heidemann had served a sentence in that city for forging his father's name and also that he had a wife and child whom he deserted when he came to this country.

It was known to the police here and had been so published in The Press, that Heidemann had been a second-story man and a pickpocket, had committed thefts and stole a horse and rig from a former employer named Rosenberg, on Staten Island. Heidemann is said to have admitted these facts to the authorities before his trial on the murder charge. Whether he had been guilty of other crimes he would not say.

While the investigation of Heidemann's past record was in progress, the authorities of the Jewish hospital in New York informed the Burns detectives that Heidemann had been discharged for a reason they would not disclose unless forced to do so by the court.

Heidemann has expressed a desire to communicate with Max Kruschka, his former employer here, before he is electrocuted. Mr. Knuschka will endeavor to procure an order from Justice Willard P. Voorhees, who sentenced Heidemann, and if he is successful will visit the condemned man in his cell in the death house the first of next week. Heidemann dies the week commencing May 22.

Monmouth's Last Execution

The last execution for a crime committed in Monmouth county took place at the jail in Freehold on Friday, June 29, 1906, when Edward W. Brown, a New York negro, was hanged for the murder of his common-law wife, Rebecca Traynum, at Long Banch, on June 11, 1904. Brown was 36 years old and claimed Richmond, Va., as his birthplace. For more than a year he lived with the Traynum woman in New York. Then she left him and went to Long Branch to live with Lizzie J. Hall at 75 Belmont avenue. There Brown found her late one night. He surprised her in her bedroom and while she was screaming for help shot her twice. She died almost instantly.

Brown made good his escape. He went to Chicago and was conducting a restaurant there when arrested on April 18, 1906. He was brought back to Monmouth county, tried and convicted on May 28. Before his execution he made a full confession.

Brown's execution by State Hangman James Van Hise of Newark, was the last hanging in New Jersey. It was Van Hise's 76th hanging.
